GOVERNMENT CANCELLATION OF LEASES.

IMPORTANT APPEAL.

Silver Peak Mines, Ltd., v Williams and another.

Mr. Loxton, K.C., and Mr. Davidson, instructed by Messrs. A. J. Taylor and Greenwell, appeared for the plaintiffs (appellants); Mr. Knox, K.C., and Mr. Bethune, instructed by the Crown Solicitor (Mr. J. V. Tillet), for James Leslie Williams, nominal defendant, on behalf of the Government; and Mr. Armstrong, instructed by Mr. A. C. Roberts, for defendant, Charles Hodges Davis. This was an appeal by the plaintiff company against the decision of the Chief Judge in Equity on April 18 last, dismissing their suit against defendants. Argument was heard on the appeal last term, and the reserved decision was now given.

Mr. Justice Harvey, after reviewing in detail the particulars of the case, said it seemed to him that the lands were not available for occupation under the Mining Acts by defendant Davis at the date when he pegged. He was not entitled to pursue any application for them on the footing of his having already pegged out the lands; nor was the Crown entitled to deal with any applications for the lands on the footing that the leases had been determined at the present time. There was, however, in his judgment nothing to prevent the Governor, if so advised, from at once inserting in the Government Gazette a proper notice of cancellation, conforming to the requirements indicated in the judgment of the High Court. The plaintiff was entitled to the first declaration he asked for, namely, that the Gazette notice was informal and ineffectual to void the plaintiff's leases, and that they still subsisted. He was not entitled to the injunction which he asked for against the Minister for Mines to restrain the Crown from further proceeding with the cancellation of the plaintiff's leases; but he was entitled to restrain the Crown from dealing with the lands on the footing that the leases had been validly cancelled. He was also entitled to an injunction against the defendant Davis to restrain him from proceeding with his present applications for leases of the lands, and from interfering with the plaintiff's leases. He did not think any case had been made out for an inquiry as to damages, as nothing had been suggested in the way of damages, excepting the infinitesimal injury arising from the driving of the pegs into the land and the entry on the lands necessary for that purpose. In the result, therefore, though the plaintiff succeeded in obtaining a declaration that his leases had not yet been validly cancelled, he failed, in his Honor's opinion, in obtaining what was the real substance of the relief which he claimed, namely, an injunction to restrain the Crown from taking steps to cancel his leases. In his opinion, the proper order as to costs was that there should be no order as to costs, either in the court below or in the appeal.

NO. 1 JURY COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Pring and a jury.)

DEAN v NEWCASTLE AND HUNTER RIVER S.S. COMPANY.

In the case in which Henry Dean and Son claimed £700 from the Newcastle and Hunter River S.S. Company in respect of damage alleged to have been done to the S.S. Wyalong while being used by the defendant company under hire from the plaintiff, it was announced that the matter had been settled out of court.

CABLES v COMMISSIONER FOR TRAMWAYS.

Peter Cables sued the Chief Commissioner of Railways and Tramways for £1000 damages for injuries sustained in an accident which he alleged was caused by the negligence of the defendant's servants in not allowing sufficient time for him to alight from a tramcar. The accident occurred at Annandale in December last, and as a result the plaintiff lost a foot. The defence was a plea of not guilty.

Mr. Curtis, instructed by Mr. W. C. Clegg, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Lamb, K.C., and Mr. Boyce, instructed by Mr. J. S. Cargill (Solicitor for Railways) for the defendant.

The case stands part heard.

NO. 2 JURY COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Ferguson and a jury.)

DUNN v GRAYNDLER.

The hearing was continued of the case in which John Dunn sued Edward Grayndler, secretary of the Australian Workers' Union, for £1000 damages for alleged libel.

At the conclusion of evidence for the plaintiff, Mr. Campbell, K.C., asked for a nonsuit, which his Honor refused to grant.

The defendant, in the witness-box, stated that he had occupied the position of general secretary of the A.W.U. since 1912. There was not the slightest truth in the allegations that he had interfered with any nomination or had had a hand in expelling members because they criticised the action of the executive. The circular which the plaintiff complained of was published as a reply to charges against the A.W.U. executive, and correctly set out the witness's beliefs. The drawing up of the circular was the result of the executive council's instructions, and a draft had been submitted to the council. The witness had never given a copy of the circular to anyone who did not produce a union ticket. It was not a fact that former members of the M.S.U. now in the A.W.U. were treated with hostility on account of their former connection with the M.S.U.

The case stands part heard.

IN EQUITY.

(Before the Chief Judge, Mr. Justice Simpson.)

PILOTS' CASE.

Peebles v Howie and others.

Mr. Harriott, instructed by Mr. A. P. Sparke, appeared for the plaintiff, John Peebles; and Mr. Maughan, instructed by Messrs. W. A. Windeyer and Williams, for the defendant, John Macdonald Howie; Mr. W. A. Parker, instructed by Messrs. J. Stuart Thom and Co., for the submitting defendants, Annie Craig and Robert Craig; Mr. W. A. Windeyer and Mr. Williams, for the submitting defendant, Arthur Eyre Dabelle; Mr. Andrews and Mr. Manning, for the submitting defendants, Hannah Michael and Lionel Walter Michael. There was no appearance for the defendants, Thomas Thompson, Robert Henry Harvey, and Lancelot Dawson.

The plaintiff's statement of claim set out that in 1906 he and others became partners in an association known as the Torres Straits Licensed Pilots' Association, on an equitable division of earnings. The secretaries of the association managed the business till December 31, 1912. In an Equity suit last October, accounts were adjusted up to June 30, 1912, but the association continued till December 31, 1912, when accounts prepared showed that the defendant Howie had received £298 6s 1d, and the defendants Craig £7 5s 11d in the last half of 1912, over and above their equal shares. The defendant Howie refused the amount claimed from him. The plaintiff prayed that it be declared that the association continued its existence till the end of 1912; that the defendants Howie and the two Craigs be ordered to pay the respective sums above stated, and that accounts be taken and adjusted from July 1 to December 31, 1912.

The defence of the defendant Howie was that the agreement terminated on June 30, 1912, and that he was not liable beyond that date.

The case is part heard.

(Before Mr. Justice Harvey.)

ALLEGED SMOKE NUISANCE.

Pittar v Alvarez.

Mr. Leverrier, K.C., and Mr. R. Windeyer, instructed by Messrs. Dawson, Waldron, and Glover, appeared for the plaintiff, Arthur Thomas Henry Pittar; and Mr. Knox, K.C., Mr. Loxton, K.C., and Dr. Coghlan, instructed by Mr. T. J. Purcell, for the defendant, Margaret Alvarez. The plaintiff's claim stated that he was the owner of the building known as Hampton Court, Woolcott-street, Darlinghurst, in which were a number of furnished flats; that owing to smoke and smuts emitted from a chimney at Goderich, in Bayswater-road, a nuisance was created, and tenants at Hampton Court refused to stay there. The plaintiff prayed that the defendant be restrained from using the said chimney, and also be ordered to pay such damage as might be ascertained on inquiry.

The defendant denied that the smoke and smuts were emitted from the chimney in question so as to create a nuisance. Defendant further alleged that any annoyance suffered by the plaintiff was due to the abnormal height of his building, and that other adjacent chimneys might have caused the alleged nuisance.

The suit is part heard.

INDUSTRIAL COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Heydon.)

APPLICATION FOR BOARD REFUSED.

Reserved judgment was delivered by his Honor on the application by the Professional Officers' Association of New South Wales for the constitution of a board for professional men, principally civil and other engineers, but including architects, surveyors, etc., and to include afterwards barristers, solicitors, doctors, and all professional men in the employ of the Railway and Tramway Department, the Sydney Harbour Trust, the Metropolitan Board of Water Supply and Sewerage, the Hunter District Water Supply and Sewerage Board, the City Council, and the shire or municipal councils. In dismissing the application, his Honor said that all the above public industries, except, perhaps, the Harbour Trust, had long had their own boards, which covered the present applicants if they came under the Industrial Disputes Act at all. Those boards had apparently never, so far, been asked to regulate the conditions of the professional employees, and he thought it was only lately that it began to occur to anyone that professional men were under the Act at all. The application was opposed by all the employers and by several unions of employees. In industries as different as those carried on by the public bodies now cited as employers, the conditions of work and employment might vary widely, and that, to his mind, was a strong reason for adhering to their industry boards, and not splitting the employees up among a number of outside boards. He was bound to say that the movement to bring such classes as those mentioned under the operations of the Act seemed to him a dangerous novelty.

ELECTROPLATERS' AWARD.

His Honor reserved his decision in the appeal by R. Brady and others against the award of the Manufacturing Group No. 5 (Electroplating) Board. Mr. A. Watt, instructed by Mr. W. H. Mahony, appeared for the appellants; and Mr. D. Guihen for the Cycle and Motor Cycle Electroplating Trades Employees' Union.

Mr. A. F. Dawson, Crown prosecutor.

POSTAL ASSISTANT'S LAPSE.

William John Laughton, 45, pleaded guilty to unlawfully making use of public moneys, at Annandale, on July 27, while working as an assistant at the local post-office. The amount he misappropriated was £16/17/4. Mr. Ash, of Messrs. Ash and Maclean, who appeared for Laughton, asked his Honor to treat his client as a first offender; but his Honor said he could not see his way clear to consider the offence as a minor one, and give Laughton the benefit of the first offenders' provisions. He would, however, defer sentence on sureties being entered into. Laughton was accordingly bound over to come up for sentence if called upon within 12 months, and to be of good behaviour for that time.

CONVICTED OF STEALING.

Walter Sharpley, 46, was charged with stealing a watch and chain, the property of John Gately, at Sydney, on November 14, and also with having received the watch and chain well knowing the same to have been stolen. He conducted his own defence. Sharpley, in his defence, said that he lent Gately £2, and he held the watch and chain as security. The jury found Sharpley guilty of stealing, and he was sentenced to 12 months' hard labour in Bathurst Gaol.

Theresa Gallagher was convicted on a charge of stealing a suit of clothes belonging to William Johnson, at Alexandria, on August 18, and was sentenced to six months' light labour in the State Reformatory for Women.

FALSE PRETENCES.

Daniel Mahoney, 25, pleaded guilty to obtaining from Edwin Cooke £3 by false pretences, with intent to defraud, at Sydney, on June 21.

Mahoney was bound over to come up for sentence if called upon within 12 months, and to be of good behaviour during that period. Mr. S. Blomfield appeared for Mahoney.

RECEIVED STOLEN PROPERTY.

Richard Evans, 29, admitted having received several articles of jewellery and 5s 5d in cash, which had been stolen from the dwelling of Mary Stedman, at St. Peters, on August 25, well knowing the property to have been stolen. He was sentenced to two years' hard labour in Bathurst Gaol. Several previous convictions were recorded against him.

LIBEL ACTION.

STATE MINISTERS ACCEPT APOLOGY.

CASE BEFORE COURT.

The actions brought by William Arthur Holman (Premier), John Henry Cann (Minister for Works), and David Robert Hall (Attorney-General) against The Australian Pictorial Newspaper Company, Ltd., for libel, were called on in the Banco Court yesterday, before the Chief Justice. Mr. Shand, K.C., and Mr. Broomfield, instructed by Messrs. Norton, Smith, and Co., appeared in each case for the plaintiff; and Mr. Pickburn, instructed by Messrs. Minter, Simpson, and Co., for the defendants. A large number of jurors had been summoned from whom 12 jurymen to try the cases would have been empanelled but, as it turned out, their services were not required.

What plaintiffs complained of, and for which they claimed £2000 damages, was an article in defendants' newspaper, which was preceded by the heading: "The Government and the Bookmakers. Does the Bookmakers' Money Stand Between the People and the Tote?" When the first case (Holman's) was called, Mr. Shand said: I am able to say that in this case and two others that follow it will be unnecessary to proceed with them, as a settlement has been arrived at on terms which will be publicly stated and filed in court. I may also mention that there are seven other cases, not in the list, in which the remaining members of the Government have brought actions in respect of the same publication; and what I propose is that all the 10 plaintiffs should go into the box and deny the charge.

His Honor: Do you propose to have a jury struck?

Mr. Shand: No.

His Honor: Is it agreed between the parties that I should give a verdict?

Mr. Shand: No, your Honor. No verdict is to be given, as the cases have been settled on terms which will be announced. All I ask is that all 10 plaintiffs be allowed to go into the box. The following are the terms of the settlement:—

Defendants, by their counsel, to make following statement in Court:—"We have never accused or intended to accuse members of the Ministry of corruption or of the receipt of any money in connection with the tote. If any publications of ours have been construed into this meaning, we regret that such an unwarranted construction has been placed thereon. All that we have done has been to give currency to the rumours which have been in existence, but we have never intended to imply that 'these rumours extended to any of the members of the present Ministry.'" Defendants to pay plaintiffs' costs in all cases as agreed.

His Honor: All I can say is that in the face of the declaration setting out the words complained of, it is an extraordinary thing for the defendants to say that the construction put upon the article was unwarranted.

W. A. Holman (Premier) then went into the box, and, in answer to Mr. Shand, said there was absolutely no truth in the allegation that he had, either directly or indirectly, received any money or any consideration of any kind from bookmakers or anybody else in connection with the totalisator.

John Henry Cann (Minister for Works), David Robert Hall (Attorney-General), John D. Fitzgerald (Vice-President of the Executive Council), George Black (Chief Secretary), William G. Ashford (Minister for Lands), H. T. Hoyle (Assistant Treasurer and Minister for Railways), W. C. Grahame (Minister for Agriculture), and J. Estell (Minister for Mines and Industry), also gave the same denial on oath.

Mr. Shand said that only one of the Ministry was absent, the reason being that the settlement was not arrived at till late on Saturday, and the Minister was not communicated with in time. He asked that the absent Minister be allowed to appear on the following morning, and make the same denial in open court.

His Honor: Yes; that may be done.

Mr. Pickburn then repeated the terms of settlement.

The Chief Justice: All I can say is that if defendants never intended to convey such an imputation as that complained of they set a very bad example to the community by making such statements referring to gentlemen in the highest positions in the country, and then explaining that they never intended to impute anything wrong to them. I think it a matter which calls for some comment.

The three cases in the list were then struck out, and, as to the other seven which had not been set down for hearing, it was stated that notice of discontinuance would be given.

FAIR RENTS COURT.

An application was made to the Fair Rents Court yesterday by the occupant of a small terrace tenement containing 2 rooms and kitchen, in 50 Phillip-street, Alexandria. The premises have a frontage of 11ft. and the rental is 11s. The Court assessed the value of the land at £6 per foot, and the building at £110. On these figures the rent was reduced to 9s.

CHAPTER XXXIII.—Continued.

At 10 o'clock, "Mr. Richard Raven" came down the road from the direction of The Towers, accompanied by Mr. Tenniers. The two gentlemen stood in converse at the garden gate of the cottage for a while, and then parted with warm handshakes, the actor-manager retracing his steps towards his own house, and the somberly-clad mourner passing into the front garden.

"Its bluff that does it," Marfleet murmured, admiringly. "He's quite taken Tenniers in. He is a great man, this Raven. It's a pity he's dropped into crime."

The next arrival on the scene was as unexpected as it was interesting. Wyndham Trafford, who, in the detective's belief, had fled the night before to join his confederate, Muriel Vail, sauntered up from the Abbey and entered the cottage. It was a deviation from Marfleet's preconceived forecast, but it did not alter his general purview of the situation. The task of disposing of the baronet's remains was evidently beyond the powers of one man, and Mr. Trafford was about to render assistance to the organiser of the deception. So much the better. He would be caught red-handed, and a lot of trouble in linking him up with the crime would be saved.

If all went well with the plot, Miss Vail would emerge from her hiding-place and Wyndham Trafford would return to the Abbey. If there was any hitch, threatening exposure, he hoped to join the girl so that together they might make their escape. Marfleet congratulated himself that he had not asked the Yard to have the ports watched. It would have been premature, and he would have been blamed for putting the department to unnecessary expense—the unforgivable sin in a public servant.

And then there came into view Mr. Timmins, bringing the polished-elm product of his night's labour in an antiquated, black-draped conveyance, half hearse and half waggonette, used for local funerals. Mr. Marfleet's deductive mind drew its swift conclusion. The sombre vehicle, with its boney black horse, was destined to carry the late Sir Trevor Trafford as far as the railway station. The motor car journey might be ruled out. The dignity of these trappings of woe would not have been accorded to an empty shell. Such a mere item would have been wheeled up on a hand-truck. The body was going to be taken to the train with all the pomp and circumstance of which the village was capable.

Again Marfleet hugged himself as he watched the coffin being carried in by Timmins and a beery assistant. A railway journey would suit him far better than a swift dash for some unknown point, in which his own car, waiting in the lane, might be outdistanced.

Suddenly, a minute after the coffin had been borne through the wicket-gate, there arose at the front door of the cottage a most unseemly parley, and after an interval, Timmins and his assistant came out of the garden. The assistant hung a nosebag round the ears of the horse, and Timmins walked about the road, scratching his head.

"D'you ever see the like of that?" Marfleet heard him say, when his man joined him. "Thirty years I've been planting corpses, and that's the fust time I've ever been not allowed to do the screwing-down myself. And I wasn't allowed to measure un, neither. From fust to last I've never set eyes on my blooming client."

"Queer, I calls it," the hireling agreed.

"It's more than queer, it's right down fishy," Mr. Timmins affirmed. "If trade wasn't so darned bad I'd inform the perlice."

Mr. Marfleet smiled. If it were needed, here was further confirmation that he was on the right track. Timmins had evidently been denied admission, and the conspirators had themselves taken the coffin upstairs to receive its occupant. That grim and silent traveller, for the best reasons, could not be subjected to the gaze of outsiders.

The amateurs at work in the cottage were clearly hampered by inexperience, for a long interval passed before Yusuf appeared at the gate and beckoned to Timmins and his man. Then a shorter one, and the coffin, covered with its rusty black pall, was borne out on the shoulders of the two professional ghouls, of Yusuf, and of Wyndham Trafford, the chief mourner, who ought to have been inside the coffin, bringing up the rear. It was most carefully deposited in the hearse section of the weird vehicle, Timmins and his man mounted the box, the three others got into the waggonette annexe, and the cortege moved off at the best walking-pace of the sorry horse towards the railway station. Mr. Marfleet rose from his cramped position and blew out his cheeks.

"My word," he exclaimed. "My word, but they've got a nerve, knowing that I am here or hereabouts. However, its a straight run in."

For twenty minutes he stood watch in hand, and then whistled up his car. He timed it to a nicety. He passed into the booking-office just as the London-bound train steamed in, and through the window opening on to the platform he saw the coffin deposited in a special van at the rear of the train. And here an irregularity occurred which again drew a chuckle from the inspector. For "Mr. Richard Raven," Wyndham Trafford, and the dark-skinned Egyptian orderly got into the van with the coffin instead of seeking one of the passenger compartments.

"They daren't leave it alone," panted the detective as he sank down breathless in a vacant first-class carriage as the train started.

The train was slow all the way to London, so he was kept busy every few minutes watching for the possible removal of the coffin or detachment of the van at an intermediate station. For Leeds, given out by the counterfeit solicitor as his destination, was certainly the very last place he was going to with his dreadful plunder. But Marfleet had assured himself that nothing, dead or alive, had left the van, which was still at the tail of the train when it ran into the terminus.

"I might have known it, with a master like Raven in charge," the inspector murmured, as he got out and mingled with the crowd on the platform. "No one but a fool would try to hide a thing like that anywhere but in London. They flatter themselves they are going to tuck it away in some cemetery in the metropolitan area. I shouldn't wonder if a nice little funeral hasn't been arranged, with a few extra mourners thrown in at five bob a head. Well, I shall be there, wherever it is. The only thing that doesn't fit the puzzle is how Raven thinks he can pick up his job in the Egyptian service again after being buried at Abney Park or Kensington. He has got some story pat, I expect, that the man they're burying is an impostor, who stole his name, or else he has got such a stake in the swindle that he doesn't care a damn. Perhaps he's gone on the widow at the Abbey and has been prime mover in the case all along."

While thus ruminating, Mr. Marfleet was an unseen spectator of the activities round the van. The proceedings were carried out in a way that suggested previous organisation. A motor hearse, whose chastened splendour contrasted sharply with the rustic shandrydan in which the journey had been begun, was in waiting, also a private automobile which Marfleet recognised as one of the cars from Trafford Abbey. The coffin was placed in the hearse, the three men who formed the escort got into the car, and with the least possible delay the little procession rolled out of the station precincts. The inspector followed in a hastily summoned taxicab.

"The body snatchers!" he muttered. "What sort of a dance are they going to lead me, I wonder? Anyhow, I've as good as got 'em."

Apparently the dance was going to lead "the tireless sleuth hound of the law," as the halfpenny press were fond of calling him, through familiar ground. It is no far cry from Waterloo station to the Embankment, and thither by way of the Strand and Northumberland-avenue, the chase proceeded. Coming into view of the great building where he spent so many years of his working life, the inspector smiled at the interest his comrades at police head-quarters would have felt could they have known that he was whirling past them on a hot scent.

He only half finished that smile. It faded suddenly into a contortion that might have betokened anything from physical pain to disgust or perplexity. For it was at this point that Detective-Inspector Marfleet got the biggest jolt of his long and honourable career.

The motor hearse, still closely followed by the Abbey car with the three conspirators, swept through the gates and pulled up at the main entrance of New Scotland Yard.

FARM AND STATION.

YASS TO JERVIS BAY.

IMPORTANT RAILWAY PROPOSITION.

At a meeting held in Yass recently representatives from 40 shires and municipalities decided to do all possible to induce the Governments—both Federal and State—to proceed at once with the construction of a railway line to link up Canberra with Yass and Jervis Bay. This work, it was held, would be the first step in the direction of decentralisation, and would be of immense benefit to primary producers of Riverina by enabling them to get their products to the seaboard with few of the vexatious delays that now occur, owing to the congestion on the main line between Albury and Darling Harbour. At the meeting delegates were present from practically every municipality and shire right from Albury to Bega, and up the coast to Wollongong. Members were unanimously in favour of the proposed line, and at the conclusion of the conference one large railway league was formed, with the object stated above. A further conference of the league is to be held in Nowra at an early date, and the matter has been taken up with enthusiasm by the people of the South Coast. At the Yass conference, the Wollongong delegates strongly supported the proposal, despite the fact that in many quarters Port Kembla has been looked on as a possible rival to Jervis Bay as a deep-sea port, and many thousands of pounds have been spent by the Government in building jetties and breakwaters, and otherwise improving the harbour there.

The length of the proposed line from Yass to the Federal Capital boundary is 32 miles 14 chains; the sharpest curve is 15 chains radius, and the steepest grade 1 in 100. Commencing by a junction with the Great Southern Railway at Yass Junction, the line would proceed south-easterly, and pass within one mile of the village of Murrumbateman, to the Federal boundary, at a point about half a mile west of Ginninderra. The surveyor, in his report on the route, said:—"The land all along the route is in pretty large holdings at present and consists of pastoral country of very fine quality. There is no doubt a large area suitable for cultivation, which will probably be used for that purpose when the line is built." In reply to a number of questions asked in the Legislative Assembly by Mr. M'Girr, member for Yass, the Minister for Works stated that the cost of this portion of the line, if sanctioned, would be borne by the State. It could be built before the Federal Government had constructed the line from the Federal Capital northward. Whether the line would be continued to Jervis Bay from the capital, the Minister added, was a matter for the Federal Government. As far back as May last the Minister for Defence, Senator Pearce, announced that the working survey of the railway from Canberra to Jervis Bay would be proceeded with, so that everything might be in readiness whenever it was decided to commence the line. Following on that intimation, it was announced by the State authorities that the question of a railway from Yass to Canberra was to some extent in abeyance, pending a decision as to the route to be adopted for the railway through the Federal Capital site.

According to a report submitted to the Department of Public Works, the length of the proposed line from Canberra to the Federal port at Jervis Bay is 130 miles. A light line of railway already exists from the capital to Queanbeyan, a distance of eight miles. From here the Cooma line would be utilised for a distance of 26 miles, and, branching off, would be carried on to the port, a distance of 96 miles. The earthworks would be moderately easy, it is stated, the only bridges of any size being across the Shoalhaven and Mongarlow rivers, while smaller bridges would be required crossing Reedy Creek, Durran Durra Creek, and the Coorang River. The descent is gradual, the highest point being at the point of departure, which is 2550ft above sea level. From Jervis Bay the connection with the South Coast railway at Bomaderry undoubtedly would be an expensive work, owing to the cost of bridging the Shoalhaven River.

Those who advocate the construction of the line agree that Jervis Bay is a port that is capable of accommodating a vast fleet of ocean-going vessels. It is pointed out that, whereas the depth of water in Sydney Harbour is only 30ft, in Jervis Bay there are 10 miles of water with a depth of 60ft, and on all frontages there is a depth of 30ft right up to the foreshores. In addition, the harbour is a safe and sheltered one. The new line would result in railway freights from Riverina being reduced by 21 miles—a consideration to producers—and the land opened up, it is claimed, would not only provide the State with great wealth, but would encourage settlement. When the newly-formed league meets in Nowra this month it is expected that a concrete proposal will be forthcoming.

AMERICAN APPLES.

"Apple" writes:—In your "On the Land" column on the 6th inst. you mention that the most serious fruit pests are introduced, and most fruitgrowers will agree with you. Such being the case, one would think it a wise course for the Departments of Agriculture in the different States to take steps to prevent the introduction of any diseases, especially new ones; and it would be interesting to learn whether steps have been taken, and what steps, to prevent the introduction of the dreaded American apple disease, "blotch." Will American apples be allowed to come into Australia, as in past years, by thousands of cases, until some day, all of a sudden, this disease in discovered in some orchards in Australia?

THE CATTLE TICK.

Mr. Munro Hull, Eumundi, Queensland, writes in regard to the work of eradicating the cattle tick in America, comparing the increased cost with his own operations, by which he claims that in three years he increased his naturally tick-free animals from one to sixty-one, and with sufficient stock and country could have easily increased the number to six hundred and one. He writes:—"These cattle when once infected with 'resistance' remain so for all time, and on any country, and their progeny also. Which of the two solutions is the best, the costly annoying American method, or the natural and permanent one of simply making the cow an impossible host for the tick, as has been discovered by me to be quite possible?—as my stock bear unquestionable testimony."

BUSINESS SITES.

ON THE IRRIGATION AREAS.

About 129 business and residential sites in the new town of Griffith, on the Mirrool subdivision, are to be offered by auction sale at the office of the Irrigation Commission, Griffith, at noon on the 18th inst. The size of the blocks set apart for residential purposes is approximately one-quarter of an acre each, the average size of the business sites being about 17 perches. The upset annual rentals range from about £3 to £7 for residential sites, and from £5 to £16 for the business sites. The railway direct to Griffith has now been running for some time.

FRUITGROWERS' CONFERENCE.

The next Australasian conference of fruitgrowers is to be held in Melbourne on October 23 and 24 next. The delegates from this State will be Messrs. C. Churchill Tucker and John Neil. It is expected that matters of more than usual interest will take up the time of the conference, as certain conditions have arisen out of the unsettled commercial controlling factors having an important bearing on the fruitgrowing industry.

GREEN MANURING.

The question of the green manuring of orchards in fairly dry regions such as around Bathurst was raised at a recent meeting of the section in agriculture of the Royal Society. It appeared to be a doubtful practice to grow a leguminous or other crop in order to increase the organic matter of the soil, because the transpiration of water by such a crop would by depleting the soil of water nullify any advantage that might accrue from an increase of organic matter or of nitrogen. When a green crop is ploughed in the vegetable matter undergoes fermentation, and harmful results might follow if the soil is so deficient in lime as to be unable to neutralise the acids produced during the fermentation. As a rule the immediate effect of ploughing in a green crop is rather harmful, but this soon passes off. The effect of the loss of water by transpiration, however, is considerable, but this might be minimised by growing rye, which gives off less water than a leafy crop. Good results have been obtained in growing cow-pea and black Mauritius velvet bean as crops for green manuring in the cane-fields of Queensland, but there is not a deficiency of rain in these places. The cutting off of the green crop in orchards is out of the question, owing to the damage done to the trees by the stock.

PARRAMATTA ORCHARD NOTES.

The early spring found the orchardists behind with the work of ploughing and cultivating, and many of them have had to keep at it literally night and day. Owing to the number of young men who have enlisted there is a great shortage of orchard labour, and though higher wages than ever are offered, the response is almost nil. However, the weather has been fine, and the land is in excellent tilth, so work has not been retarded in these respects. The orchards never looked better, and citrus trees are at the present time carrying a light main crop, a heavy second crop, and an enormous quantity of blossom for next season's main crop. The main crop of mandarins is at present being marketed, and bringing top prices. The crop, however, is light, but the second crop is fairly heavy, and should command good prices later on. It will be ready for market in November. The main crop of oranges, which is also being rapidly cleared out, was light, but the trees are carrying a heavy second crop, which should be ready to pull next month. In some places it is almost ready for market now. This second crop is, in some districts, inclined to be rather thick in the skin, but it will be a good marketable orange, and will carry well, so should prove good for export. Lemons are light, but there are splendid prospects for next season. The summer fruit trees are now in full bloom, and some of the early blooms have set very well. The weather has been very propitious for the summer fruit bloom, from the fact that little or no rain has fallen during the blooming, and, although rain is wanted elsewhere, the fruitgrowers are not looking for it for another week or so, by which time the bulk of the bloom will have had time to set.

GREEN FODDER.

SOUTH COAST EXPERIMENTS.

DAPTO.—The green fodder wheat experiment plots on Mr. T. A. Bateman's farm, Albion Park, have been harvested by Inspector Makin, of the Department of Agriculture. The returns this year were poor, owing to the exceptionally dry weather experienced. The experiments proved that Thew wheat, which yielded 6 tons 8cwt 1qr 8lb to the acre, is a most suitable variety for the district, as it gave a much greater weight of fodder than any of the other kinds sown, and was entirely free from rust. A test was made with a variety called Bunge, a wheat raised in Queensland, but from its appearance on this plot it is quite unsuitable for the South Coast, as it was so affected with rust as to be of little value. Although the yield of green fodder was low as compared with last year, Mr. Bateman says that it proved invaluable to him, and saved him the necessity of buying bran and chaff for his dairy herd.

SOLDIERS' FUND.

FARMERS' PRACTICAL HELP.

TAMWORTH.—A large number of farmers in the Tamworth district have generously decided to devote portion of their farms to the Soldiers' Fund. The proceeds of the crops will go towards the funds for returned soldiers and dependents. The Peel River Land and Mineral Company have granted 200 acres of most fertile land for the purpose, and on Wednesday a large number of farmers in the district met on the ground, and a commencement was made with the ploughing. Eighteen teams, comprising 115 horses, were on the ground. It is proposed to fallow land till next season. A suggestion has been made to let the land for the purposes of sowing and reaping the crop on the halves system. It is considered that better results will thereby be forthcoming than by waiting till farmers are available after putting in their own crops, while there will also be no delay when the crop is ripe enough to harvest. It is also suggested that farmers of the district should contribute sufficient bags of wheat to equal the share of the share farmer, and thereby enable the full return of the 200 acres to go into the fund.

PECULIAR DISEASE.

MORTALITY AMONG SHEEP.

BATHURST.—The stock inspector of the Bathurst P.P. district reported to the Chief Inspector of Stock the peculiar circumstances connected with wholesale deaths among sheep within the board's area, all the victims showing similar symptoms. The report was as follows:—"The ewes were within a few weeks of lambing, low in condition, having experienced a very dry spell in the earlier part of the year, while in the past three months they had been subjected to the wettest of winters, and in some cases to heavy falls of snow. The country was nice and green, but the feed was short, the excessive wet weather having retarded growth very much. The ewes were found in a natural position, but unable to rise; if put on their legs they staggered and fell, apparently having lost all control of their hindquarters. There also appeared to be a sort of paralysis of the jaw, as the sheep did not make any attempt to feed. They remained in this condition from some days to a week before they died."

The inspector added that a post-mortem had revealed the organs in a normal condition, and that there were not any signs of fluke or worms. He was of opinion that the trouble was due to the low condition of the sheep consequent upon the long dry period earlier in the year, when the feed was scarce, succeeded by the excessive wet weather, the sheep having scarcely been dry during the past three months.

TICKS.

CASINO.—Two matters relating to ticks and the dipping of cattle came up at the last meeting of the Casino Council. The first was with regard to the erection of dips close to the new saleyards. Some time ago a petition was presented to the council opposing the erection of the dip close to the saleyards from a health point of view. Two letters have been received by the council from the Primary Producers' Union protesting against the dips being erected anywhere but at the saleyards. The council decided to ask the P. P. Unions to forward their protests to the Minister. A few days ago the Mayor and Mr. J. B. M'Dougall were in Sydney, and they waited upon the Minister asking for a relaxation of the regulation which provided for two dippings for stock. That deputation left the Minister convinced that cattle would be allowed out of the area going south on the Richmond on one dipping. However, the day before the council meeting the Mayor received an urgent wire that the Minister had decided that only cattle from the south side of the river could return from the saleyards on one dipping.

THE RABBIT PEST.

BATHURST.—At a meeting of the Bathurst P.P. Board, Mr. E. G. Lynch reported that close to Bathurst and near the railway line digging out and a great deal of trapping for market purposes had been in progress, with a consequent reduction in rabbits. Kittens, however, were appearing at a rapid rate, and it was the duty of landholders to attack them now independently of the men who trapped for the market. In the Orange division the pest had been driven off a large area of country, this satisfactory result following the burning off of rabbit harbour, wire-netting, and digging out. In many parts, about Millthorp, Guyong, and neighbouring centres the only rabbits seen were those in lanes and byways which were seldom used. The stock inspector mentioned in his report that foxes and crows were reported to be doing considerable damage among ewes. The lambing had reached a general stage, and there was every prospect of a big percentage being marked.

DISTRICT ITEMS.

BERRY.—The continued dry weather during the past few weeks, together with westerly winds, has given the pastures and crops a very parched appearance. If the existing weather conditions continue much longer the dairymen in this district will be faced with a serious situation. Many are compelled to hand-feed their stock in order to keep up the milk yield.

QUEANBEYAN.—During the past winter there has been much more than the average rainfall, spread over many weeks, with the result that there has been a good deal of growth. All the stock are in first-class condition, and the lambing was good, a special feature having been the number of cases of more than one lamb at a birth, while there were at least two cases of four. The agricultural outlook is also good, and generally the season may be classed as one of the very best.

BUILDINGS AND WORKS.

PROGRESS OF THE TRADE.

NEW HALL FOR NORTH SYDNEY.

A long felt want has been supplied on the northern side of the harbour by the building of a modern hall for public use in Carlow-street, North Sydney, near the park. The building has been erected by day labour in accordance with plans, etc., submitted by Mr. J. T. McCarthy, architect, of this city, and has been designed to accommodate various forms of amusement, including moving picture shows and dramatic or musical entertainments. A special floor has also been laid for dancing. THE POSITION OF AUSTRIA.

Of all the interviews vouchsafed to the American press by European statesmen, Baron Burian's is surely the most significant if we consider not what he says but what he implies, and if we compare it with previous declarations from his Government. It would, of course, be foolish to extract an admission of defeat from his statement that Austria would gladly welcome an offer of peace. Any of the allied statesmen would say the same at the present moment, with the qualification that the terms must be satisfactory. A German statesman would do so if he were speaking not to the outside world or to a council of fire-eaters, but in the national Parliament. The real significance of this speech lies in the reference to the terms desired by the Allies and by Roumania especially. Baron Burian is clearly anxious to picture Austria to the American public as a nation fighting for its own integrity against a horde of invaders. The German theory of an alliance desirous of improving the rest of the world by the compulsory imposition of its civilisation, is not mentioned. Neither is the scheme of a Customs union which would make the whole of middle and eastern Europe subservient to the commercial organisation now administered by the German Empire. Austria is now a nation thinking only of self defence. Baron Burian goes so far as to admit that the Allies were put in such a favourable position by the Russian victories that in their opinion the intervention of Roumania was an embarrassment rather than a blessing. We can imagine what comments this attitude will arouse in Germany, where it is held to be the part of a great general to sacrifice the reality of strength to the appearance of victory. But Baron Burian in this interview seems to have been thinking very little of his German allies. When he turns from the neutral world it is to his own kinsmen, the Hungarians. The assertion that Roumania was offered no territory must have been for their benefit. We know that the German Emperor did his utmost to keep the new Power out of the war, going so far as to threaten King Ferdinand with the presence of his special envoy, the Grand Duke of Mecklenburg, the successful ambassador to Bulgaria. Germany had not hesitated to offer Austrian provinces to Italy, and would have offered Austrian and Hungarian as well as Russian territory to Roumania. But the one province which Roumania needed was neither Austrian nor Russian but Hungarian, and therefore could on no account be handed over even for the sake of pleasing Germany or of keeping Roumania out of the war. The turbulent Hungarian magnates are offered this assurance as some consolation for the presence of Roumanian and Russian armies on their territories. None of their possessions has been offered as a bribe and none will be surrendered as long as the joint army can defend it. When the Hungarians remember the delight with which they greeted the declaration of war they may see some justice in the punishment which has visited them before any of their allies. But in Hungary the time seems to have gone by for the Government to defend itself by appeals to its diplomatic records or to its proofs of good faith. If Mackensen's offensive succeeds in forcing back the Roumanians, or even in withstanding the Russian invasion from the north, the value of Germany as an ally will have been demonstrated again. If not, the dismemberment of the Austrian Empire must go on, influenced by the claims of the Allies and not by the respective jurisdictions of Austria or Hungary.

Reading of an Empire defending its integrity to the last the American people will naturally think of the most striking lessons of that empire to the world. They will remember the horror with which the whole civilised world followed the suppression of the Hungarian revolt in 1848-9. Many of them will recall "the seven gallant gentlemen strung up in a row" of Meredith's poem, or the scenes in England when the Austrian envoy was hissed and Palmerston incurred the Royal displeasure by refusing to apologise. Another chapter in Austrian rule was closed by the Italian war of liberation when the Empire was dismembered for the benefit of humanity. From that time onward the Hungarians asserted themselves, and outdid their partners in the art of oppressing subordinate races. The combined efforts of the two led to the famous ultimatum and to this war. If we were to seek for the fullest contrast to the mood of this interview we could find it in the ultimatum to Servia. We now know that a year before the Central Powers would have attacked Servia if they had thought themselves ready to face France, Russia, and Great Britain combined. But the ultimatum by itself is enough to convince the neutral world of the hollowness of any claim by Austria to speak as an unaggressive Power. A few years before there were statesmen in Austria, and perhaps in Germany, who thought that their economic aims could be pursued by peaceful means, by the extension of railways and steamships and banks. These statesmen had successively resisted proposals to declare war on Servia in 1908 and on Italy during her Tripolitan campaign. But once the Central Powers thought themselves prepared, the Austrian statesmen were as ready for war as the German, and the Hungarians were the most ferocious of all. Baron Burian's reference to the supply of munitions from America is rather unfortunate in such an interview as this. The Austro-Hungarian remonstrance in 1915 drew from President Wilson a very instructive disquisition on the responsibility for the war. He declared that if he were to accept the rule that the subjects of a neutral State must not supply a belligerent with arms, he would confer an incalculable advantage on nations which had plotted and prepared for war, and would deprive peaceful nations of any hope of making a defence. Austria-Hungary may have hesitated when her statesmen realised the possible consequences of their acts. But their hesitation came too late. The present catastrophe is the result of an almost uniform series of events, and has only been precipitated by an alliance with rulers who, having the same ideas of the rights of other peoples as the Austrians, had also in their opinion the power to carry them out.

WHEAT PROSPECTS.

It is a puzzling situation for our wheat farmers, now that the season promises so well and prices are more than likely to keep up. They see from our cablegrams that the American crop is short by 40,000,000 bushels; and they know that if only Australian wheat held here could be marketed they would soon be given another advance upon the last harvest. A quarter of wheat of 480lb at 70s means that the price offered to-day for our grain afloat is something like 8s 9d per bushel; but the heavy freights, of course, partly account for this. Only 35 per cent. of the wheat delivered on account of the pool here has been disposed of; and we see that the problem of the rest is still a complicated one. A very high price for wheat is not much good to us unless we can realise upon it; and if Russia should be able directly to cut a way to Constantinople and open the Dardanelles for her harvests there will be a fall in prices. This, however, should not deter the wheat grower from going ahead. The armies have to be fed; and even Russian wheat in full supply may not go very far in filling the gaps made by bad seasons elsewhere and by great stretches of country in enemy occupation. Certainly the position for the Australian wheat grower is made brighter by American misfortune, but everything will still depend upon what means can be found in the immediate future to send his product to market. Our anxieties, however, may be said to increase considerably with the prospects of another good season. The farmer everywhere needs help, and labour is getting scarcer. A fine harvest may be assured, but the garnering of it is bound to cause endless difficulty. Here surely is an opening for ideas in co-operation and organisation. Something will have to be done; and the surplus labour of the cities should prove capable of meeting the emergency if properly directed and controlled. Wheat means wealth, and much help in bearing the increasing burdens of taxation. By all means, then, let us show as a community that we can rise to the occasion, and prove ourselves ready for the months of harvest.

A PUBLIC DISGRACE.

THE WATER SHORTAGE.

At last night's meeting of the City Council Alderman Hagon asked whether it was a fact that the water carts had been withdrawn from the streets. If this were so he said, it would not only be injurious to health, but the dust nuisance would be a serious matter to shopkeepers.

The Lord Mayor replied that the council had been asked by the Water Board to economise in every possible way in the use of water. He would not be surprised if, as a result, there was an increase in epidemics that would not occur with a plentiful supply of water.

Alderman A. M'Elhone said that the annual recurrence of the water famine was a disgraceful state of affairs that would not be tolerated in any other city in the world.

A minute by the Lord Mayor suggesting that the city be gridironed with high-pressure salt water mains for street flushing purposes, was referred to the works committee for report.

THE "SYDNEY MAIL."

Many excellent photographs in connection with the Anglo-French offensive appear in this week's "Mail." They present plenty of variety, and enable us to understand more clearly the cabled accounts of the terrific fighting on the western front. The advance in Transylvania and Galicia is also pictorially dealt with, and there are photographs of the French and Turkish armies in the Balkans. Lieutenant Robinson's heroic feat in bringing down a Zeppelin near London is the subject of a page drawing, and there is also an illustration of the new bomb which the Allies are using against the enemy airships. An article describing the Enoggera camp near Brisbane is accompanied by a photograph of the Commandant, Major Weavers, and his staff. The coronation of the Queen of Allies Day at Barraba is illustrated, and there is a group of the Eastwood V.A.Ds. A page is devoted to scenes of the wreckage caused by the tremendous explosion in munition works at Jersey City, near New York, at the end of July; and there are many other illustrations, including portraits of about 130 Australian heroes.

FROM A BELGIAN CONVENT.

To be within sound of the guns and Ypres, and yet to lead a peaceful convent life apparently untouched by any effect of war has been the fate for the last two years of two Sisters of the Sacred Heart, who arrived in Sydney yesterday by the Osterley. They are staying at the convent of Our Lady of the Sacred Heart, Kensington. Compared with Sisters Brandon and Marianne, the needy knife-grinder was a chatty person, for they literally have no story to tell. Sister Marianne, who in lay life was Miss Deamer, and a sister of Mrs. Albert Goldie (Miss Dulcie Deamer), the well-known writer, joined the Convent of Thuin, a small town in Belgium, half an hour's journey from the French frontier, a few months before the war began, and Sister Brandon a short time afterwards.

"Ours was not a nursing nor a teaching order, and we saw but little of the outside world. The life in Thuin went on in placid fashion. Nobody spoke much about the war, for under the German rule all remarks have perforce to be very guarded. The newspapers of the place, which still continue to be published in French, which is the language of the district, contained only a few general statements, such as: 'Fighting continues on the western front.' We walked much, for exercise, in the forest near the town, one of the many beautiful forests for which Belgium is noted, and often in the stillness we could hear the booming of the guns at Ypres. Food supplies were regular, and we felt no shortage. We are both Australians, and when we decided to leave for this part of the world, we had to wait some time for our passports, which we ultimately obtained through the American Consul."

SEAT FOR EX-PREMIER.

KALGOORLIE (W.A.), Monday.

Mr. J. Lutey, who was recently elected to the Assembly as member for Brown Hill-Ivanhoe, has decided to resign in favour of the ex-Premier, Mr. J. Scaddan. The seat was formerly held by Mr. Scaddan, who resigned in order to contest the Canning election against the Attorney-General.

REPATRIATION.

AN ANZAC WORK SCHEME.

STATEMENT BY MR. BAILLIEU.

Mr. Arthur Baillieu, of Melbourne, one of the board of trustees of the Repatriation Fund, who, at the invitation of the soldiers, is on his way to attend their Commonwealth Congress at Brisbane, arrived in Sydney yesterday.

"There are many funds in all the States," he observed, "which have for their aim benefits of various kinds for our soldiers, or the soldiers of the Allies; but the Repatriation Fund is quite distinct from any of them. It is the national fund, governed by an Act of the Commonwealth Parliament, and controlled by a trustee board, on which each State is represented. It has nothing to do with men while they are soldiers—that is the business of the other funds. It has all to do with men when they become once more civilians, and require to be re-established in civil life.

"We will assist to sustain a man while he is being trained for a new occupation. We will provide tools of trade. We will help to set a man up in a small business in suitable cases. Subject to the arrangements which the State Governments may ultimately make, we will assist men going on the land to acquire plant and implements, and to make a beginning with live stock. We hope also, if we can get the manufacturers and the unions to help us, to be in a position to give a large number of young men some appreciable assistance to get a home together and settle down in it. Many married men have gone to the front. Their wives and children have been living in lodgings. Very many young men married just before leaving; very many others will wish to marry directly they return. Now, one of the many undesirable legacies of war is the restlessness which it leaves with men after the 'shouting and tumult die.' We see it already in our men who have come back, especially among those who have no home ties. The home, we are convinced, is the best sedative. This is where the influence of the women comes in, and no other influence can take its place. Thus it comes that we want to see as many of them as possible married, and the best encouragement we can give them is to assist them to get a little home together by a gift of essential furniture. Of course, this cannot, in any one case, represent more than a modest commencement. But, although the articles will not be many, they will be specially designed, and will be good of their kind. We hope also to do something in the direction of clothing outfits. We also expect to be turning out pieces of farming plant on a large scale.

"Of course, all this runs into big figures, and the extent to which the trustees will be able to go in this direction will depend upon the amount of assistance which we get from the manufacturers and their skilled workers. We have a complete Anzac work scheme ready to launch, and have discussed it with leading manufacturers and the unions concerned in Melbourne, and have obtained most enthusiastic undertakings to co-operate. We have no reason to doubt that the response will be any the less cordial when we come to discuss the details with the industrial interests of the other States.

"The new recruiting campaign, which will be followed with the referendum by absorbing public attention and engrossing the energies of the war councils and their local committees, will involve some postponement in the development of our appeal; but we hope to get well down to work when the excitement is over.

"At the present moment we hardly know how many will ultimately leave Australia, and we certainly do not know how many will return. We have, however, taken 100,000 as the lowest number of probable claims, and £5,000,000 as the minimum effective sum. The Repatriation Fund will even then only be supplementary to Government effort in some directions. For instance, the matter of land settlement is a State matter. The State, generally speaking, is charged with the responsibility of providing the land, and of making advances to approved settlers for improvements. The State, having the machinery, can also manage best the related question of housing and of giving some relief to returned soldiers who find themselves loaded with rather onerous terms in connection with time-payment contracts. I understand the Commonwealth will assist the States to finance all these responsibilities, but there is pressing need for some uniformity of policy in these matters throughout all the States.

"New South Wales has done one good thing by setting apart portion of the Australia Day money definitely for the relief of the immediate cash necessities of returned men. The trustees are anxious to see similar action in the other States, so that the clear work of repatriation may not be complicated by applications of a class which should be met from other funds. We are dealing not with the soldiers of a particular State, or of a particular district of a State, but of Australia. We must, therefore, aim as far as possible at equality of treatment of particular classes of cases. With local funds you would have an appalling inequality, and in many cases there is an administrative problem involved, the difficulties of which I do not think have been realised by the projectors of the local funds. At the same time, while I think the fund should be controlled by an Australian body with statutory responsibility for its acts, I do quite agree that the fullest possible local co-operation should be sought, both in regard to collection and allotment. And under the scheme approved by the trustees, the State war councils will seek this co-operation.

"Where the Federal income tax is in question, contributions in cash may be deducted from the taxable income. If later on, however, it should be necessary to supplement the fund by special taxation, the Commonwealth Government has undertaken that contributors to the fund will be allowed to set off the amount of contribution against the tax payable. That will ensure that the tax will fall upon those who have not contributed, while opening the way for those who wish to do so without misgivings as to their position later on. We are also hopeful that the States will consent to give contributors to the fund some relief in respect of State income taxation."

DECEMBER 15.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

The date of "Repatriation Day" has been changed from October 27 to December 15. This action has been taken in view of the fact that the energies of the War Councils will be severely taxed until the end of October by the recruiting campaign.

In New South Wales, up to July 21 last, the stated value of the goods so given of which there is record was £233,000, and in Victoria £250,000.

COAL-LOADING CRANES.

Mr. Cann, Minister for Railways, stated yesterday that the third electric coal-loading crane at Newcastle had been tested with satisfactory results, and that, with the approval of Mr. Fraser, Deputy Chief Commissioner, the crane had now been transferred to the Railway Department. It would forthwith be put into everyday work. The hoisting machinery of No. 3 crane is in duplicate, and with one motor during the test a 15-ton load was lifted through 50ft. at an average speed of 61ft. per minute. When the two motors were coupled up in the usual manner of working a lift of 111ft was attained.

At the official testing Mr. Percy Allen represented the Works Department, and Messrs. Brain and Fox, who recorded the various times, represented the Railway Department. The fourth crane has been completed for some time, but is being used for erecting the fifth one, which, it is expected, will be completed in about eight weeks. The sixth crane has been tested and passed by the consulting engineer in London, and delivery at Newcastle is expected in the course of a few weeks.

STATE FINANCE.

MR. BEEBY'S REJOINDER.

HOW THE MONEY GOES.

Mr. Beeby, leader of the Progressive party, who is absent in the country campaigning, has forwarded the following reply to the comment of the Premier on his criticism of the financial statement:—

"Mr. Holman has adopted a new method of controversy. Anything which cannot be answered is classified as 'a matter of opinion,' and then left untouched. But are the startling figures quoted by me from the last Railway Commissioner's report as to the increased cost of railway construction matters of opinion? Are the present rate of interest and Norton Griffiths and Company's extra 5 per cent. commission matters of opinion? Is the fact that we are spending more loan money than ever before, with interest bearing 6 per cent., a matter of opinion? Are the new commitments for the city railway and other concerns that do not increase our capacity for wealth production matters of opinion? Is our growing responsibility to create new avenues of employment a matter of opinion? Is the admitted use of loan money on things properly chargeable to revenue a matter of opinion? Are the difficulties in getting permission of the Imperial authorities to authorise the last loan, and the certainty that we will before long be unable to get much money, even on the present terms, matters of opinion? Are the railway losses, in spite of increased freight and fares, and the admitted savings effected by duplication, matters of opinion? Is the extra taxation imposed by the Government in the first year of the war a matter of opinion?

"Dealing with Mr. Holman's scheduled reply to my criticism, my statement was that his alleged surplus would have been £70,000 less if the amount due under the Wheat Act had been paid when due, and not held over till the conclusion of the financial year. This remains unanswered. Further, that use of loan moneys on things which should have been paid from revenue accounted for a further sum. This is admitted to the extent of £44,000 for one year. But in the previous two years the Government followed the same course with a promise to pay back into the revenue account in the next year. That promise has not been redeemed. Take the following items appearing in the last available Auditor-General's report:—Clearing Crown lands at Tottenham and Trangie, £44,000; establishment of agricultural colleges, promotion of agriculture, etc., £4000; public buildings generally, £5098; fisheries, towards the purchase of trawlers, £26,000; public instruction, school buildings, residences, sites, farm homes, etc., £55,000.

"Can there be but one opinion that these, and all other undertakings which are not revenue-producing, should have been charged to revenue, and not paid from loans? For the past three years the Government has deliberately tried to improve the appearance of its revenue by the wrongful use of loan money. And, in spite of this and the staggering increases in the imposts of the taxpayers, they boast of a surplus of only £149,000.

"Mr. Holman, in No. 8 of his answers, evades the point. What I contended was that in unfinished railways in various parts of the State over £6,000,000 of capital is invested, and that while we pay interest on this amount it is not revenue-producing. I did not say that the Government had spent all this money on unfinished lines. What I said was that the big loss in this direction arose from the Government's wasteful method of construction in committing us to new works instead of finishing those in hand.

"As to the increased cost of railway construction, Mr. Holman could not have properly read my statement or referred to the Commissioner's report. The average quoted by me for both periods included equipment. For construction of lines, workshops, and equipment, the average cost up to 1907 was about £12,000 per mile. Since 1907, for the same works, it has gone up to £22,000 per mile. Allowing £6,000,000 off this for duplication, the general cost of our railways per mile is to-day more than twice as much as it was in 1907.

"As to the business undertakings, all Government departments are under instructions to give a 10 per cent. preference to State enterprises where there is outside competition. Where there is no outside competition the State enterprise can fix its own price for articles supplied. It is by these means that the alleged profits have been arrived at this year. Will Mr. Holman give me a chance to establish this statement, and my contentions as to the money lost on day labour, before some impartial tribunal?

"I did not dispute Mr. Holman's contention that the few people who could get access to State fish got a cheaper article. What I pointed out was that, on the Premier's own statement, the State paid 2½d per pound out of revenue towards this cheapness. Mr. Holman admits this, but is silent on my inquiry as to whether we can cheapen food products in this way. This, I presume, he regards also as 'a matter of opinion.'"

"GO SLOW" TACTICS.

DENOUNCED BY MR. BEEBY.

SUGGESTED REMEDY.

WAGGA, Monday.

Speaking at one of his meetings in the Wagga electorate, Mr. G. S. Beeby trenchantly criticised the Government with regard to the meat trouble in Sydney. He said the Government had spent nearly £1,000,000 in the erection of one of the most up-to-date slaughtering establishments in the world. Machinery had been provided to do the heavy work, and general provision had been made for an increased output. The men, however, in order to enforce the claim which would enable them to earn over £2 a day for eight hours' work had reduced their output, and, on Mr. Black's own admission, were giving one-half the output which was expected of them. The result of this policy was that the killing of animals was costing three times as much as under the old conditions at Glebe Island, notwithstanding the expenditure on labour-saving appliances.

The most extraordinary development, however, was Mr. Black's official statement on the position. Mr. Beeby added that, instead of taking a stand against this concrete illustration of what the "go slow" policy meant, Mr. Black said in effect that it would not be so bad if the unionists followed the same policy in all slaughtering establishments. In other words, so long as the State establishment did not show worse results than private ones, the men should under his benign benediction go as slow as they liked.

"Economically a policy of this kind," said Mr. Beeby, "must seriously react on the whole community. Working six hours a day the slaughterman at present earned over £6 a week. The off-side labour employed with slaughtermen necessarily worked only six hours a day. If the increased rates were conceded the highest wages payable in the State would be received for working half time. That meant that half the labour engaged in the slaughtering industry would be idle. Twice as many men would be attached to the calling as were necessary. If there were 3000 workmen engaged throughout the State in the trade 1500 would be unnecessary. If ever a case existed for strong and determined action by Ministers it existed at Homebush to-day.

"It is idle for the Government to dismiss the matter by saying that the I.W.W. influence is insignificant," Mr. Beeby continued. "It is steadily growing and permeating the industrial life of the State, and the need exists more to-day than ever before for strong Governments, which, while in every way maintaining fair industrial conditions and a fair standard of comfort for every citizen, will stand up against a policy that deliberately limits the output and reduces efficiency. The growing need of this country is the establishment in every possible direction of a system of payment by results, with the protection of a living wage. We must leave every citizen free fully to use his energy so long as he is fairly paid in proportion to his increased output."

AUSTRALIA'S TROOPS.

A MESSAGE OF GRATITUDE.

The Australian manager of the General Accident, Fire, and Life Assurance Corporation, Limited, has received a letter from Mr. F. North Miller, manager for this corporation, Perth, Scotland, in the course of which the writer says:—"Tell your friends in Australia that all of us here live constantly in an intense feeling of gratitude to the Australian troops, who have shown such bravery and done such valiant deeds in fighting the Empire's enemies. We are indeed proud of them, and it has made us look, if it were possible, with a more loving eye on that place in the map which denotes the great Australia whence such heroes have come."

FEDERAL CAPITAL.

INQUIRY IN SYDNEY.

COLONEL MILLER AND MR. GRIFFIN.

Yesterday Mr. Wilfred Blacket, K.C., the Royal Commissioner who is investigating matters in connection with the Department of Home Affairs, heard evidence in the Commonwealth Rooms, Pomeroy House, York-street. Mr. W. Webster (Postmaster-General), Colonel Percy Owen (Director-General Commonwealth Public Works), Colonel David Miller, and Mr. W. B. Griffin (Director of Design and Construction at the Federal Capital) were present.

Colonel Miller, giving evidence, stated that prior to the outbreak of the war he was permanent head of the Department of Home Affairs. He was appointed permanent head and organiser of the department in 1901. At that time the public works of the Commonwealth were carried out under an agreement with the State Governments. Parliament having voted funds for the position of Inspector-General of Public Works in 1904, Colonel Percy Owen was appointed to the position. Early in 1905 regulations were issued defining the powers and responsibilities of the Inspector-General. Colonel Owen, who was afterwards appointed Director-General, submitted a scheme and diagram of Canberra with an estimated population of 25,000. The Director-General recommended that such materials as bricks and lime should be made on the spot. These recommendations were drawn up in 1913. Witness became Administrator of the Federal Territory in 1912. He was now engaged on military duties, but had not retired from the position of Administrator.

Referring to the evidence which had been given by Mr. W. H. Kelly, M.P., witness said he desired to contradict the statement that he did not carry out the wishes or orders of Mr. Griffin. When Mr. Griffin arrived in Sydney in August, 1913, Mr. Kelly was the head of the department as honorary Minister. He (witness) knew that Mr. Griffin would be responsible for the laying out of the Federal capital. He did not think that it was his place to go on board the boat to welcome Mr. Griffin, but he saw him the same day at the Customs-house, where he (witness) had his office. He assured Mr. Griffin that he would give him every assistance, and invited him to Canberra as his guest. Acting under the instructions of the Minister the members of the board subsequently met Mr. Griffin in Melbourne. The discussion lasted a week.

Witness said he had invariably done everything in his power to assist Mr. Griffin, and on no occasion had he done anything, directly or indirectly, to interfere with him or his work. Their relations were friendly at all times, and it came upon him as a surprise when evidence was given before the Commission to the effect that he had been other than courteous and obliging. In this regard he desired to say a few words about another statement by Mr. Kelly. Some of his replies to official communications had been alluded to as disingenuous. It was the first time in his long and honourable career in the State and Commonwealth service that such a thing had been said of him.

In reply to the Commissioner witness said that the power-house at Canberra was erected according to the departmental plan, and not in accordance with Mr. Griffin's design.

Witness, in reply to another question, admitted that he had advised the Minister to reopen the question of accepting Mr. Griffin's design for the Federal city. His object was to obtain the opinion of the best expert on town-planning in the British Empire. He was aware that Mr. Griffin's plan had been approved of by Mr. Kelly in 1913. Still, as the complete amended design had not come before the new Minister, he thought the suitability of the plan was an open question, quite apart from personal considerations. He had no thought of seeing a departmental plan accepted in preference to Mr. Griffin's. He knew that Mr. Griffin was entitled to exercise certain powers under his contract or agreement. In witness's opinion Mr. Griffin's position should have been that of a consulter.

"I never had a complaint to make about Mr. Griffin," said Colonel Miller, in conclusion, "and I hope he will tell you, Mr. Commissioner, that he never had occasion to make a complaint about me."

At 4.30 the Commission was adjourned until 11 a.m. to-day.

ONLY ONE QUESTION.

THE TEST FOR GOVERNMENTS.

MR. HOLMAN'S FAILURE.

ALBURY, Monday.

"There is only one issue before the people of Australia to-day," said Mr. T. R. Bavin in opening his campaign at Albury to-night. Mr. Bavin has been unanimously selected to run for the Albury electorate in the Progressive interest. Continuing, he said the one question was how best to shape the conduct of our public and private affairs so as to help to the utmost in winning the war. It was sometimes said that this was a matter for the people in their capacity as Federal electors. He did not take that view. It was true that the actual conduct of military and naval defence was a matter for the Commonwealth. But the measures and the policy which could help the Empire at the present time were not confined to military and naval defence. This war was not merely a war of armies and navies. It was a war of peoples. The test by which any political party, State or Federal, had to be judged at the present time was, How had its policy and its measures assisted in this great purpose? Tried by this supreme test the present Government of this State had miserably failed. Its record, apart from the war, was a bad one—quite enough to justify the opposition of those who desired economical, efficient, and clean administration. The war had imposed upon the whole nation, Governments and individuals alike, the imperative duty of economy. The Government which spent money extravagantly or which devoted the national resources to purposes which did not directly tend to increase our national efficiency in the war was in the same position as a man who, though fit for military service, declined to render it. The present Government had hardly even made a pretence at any kind of economy. Their loan expenditure had increased by leaps and bounds. They had locked up millions of capital in unfinished railways; they had entered upon expensive and unproductive enterprises like the city railway and the completion of the Central Station. If they had had their way the country would have been plunged into the expenditure of enormous sums of money in the construction of the North Shore bridge and into risky speculations like the monopoly of the bread trade. They had insisted upon going direct to the London money market, and borrowing for purposes such as these at extravagant rates of interest, when every available penny was wanted by the mother country for the direct purposes of the war.

If men were capable of preferring their party interests to their country when the very existence of the Empire was involved, he added, how could they ask for a renewal of public confidence? What ground had they for asking the public to believe that, although they had been unfaithful in the great matters of national duty, they could fairly be trusted in minor matters of local administration?

THE G.P.O.

THE REMODELLING SCHEME.

The Postmaster-General (Mr. Webster) stated yesterday that he had had under review the possibility of converting the General Post Office, Sydney, into a modern, efficient, and economic proposition.

"The subject bristles with difficulties, which had to be overcome before finality could be approached," he said. "These difficulties have been surmounted one by one, and instructions have been given to develop plans on lines adopted. The ground floor will be allotted almost wholly to the public utilities, with a spacious vestibule wherein all public wants can be expeditiously, efficiently, and economically met. The changes on the other floors will follow. I now feel I shall be able to convert the building into commodious, well-lighted, and ventilated rooms, reducing cost of supervision, and securing better results. This will not necessitate any serious structural changes, and can be done more cheaply than was expected. The dangerous fire risk in the wooden shute and exposed joists and floors of test-room will no longer haunt those responsible for the lives of hundreds of employees and the safety of the telephone service. The shute is now fireproof, and the ceiling of the test-room is fast being encased in asbestos fireproof material. The cost of this is much below that submitted by the department's officers. My initiative is responsible for that."

THE SOMME

TROOPS PRAISED

ENEMY ATTACKS FAIL

ROUMANIA

ENEMY CLAIMS SILISTRIA

CARPATHIANS SUCCESS

The Allies on the Somme have successfully repelled many counter-attacks.

The British last week took two fortified villages, and advanced from 300 to 3000 yards, on a front of 6000 yards.

The Roumanians, on the Carpathians section of the Transylvanian front, have advanced steadily, and seized many strong positions in mountainous country.

The Germans claim the capture of Silistria, an important Roumanian town on the Danube, in Dobrudja.

The Russians are still attacking towards Halicz. It is stated that their armies now enclose the town in a semi-circle.

WEEK'S GAINS ON SOMME.

SPIRIT OF TROOPS PRAISED.

LONDON, Sept. 11.

General Sir Douglas Haig, in his noon report of Sunday says:—In the past week's heavy fighting we have advanced on a front of 6000 yards to a depth varying from 300 to 3000 yards.

Sir Douglas Haig adds:—We retain all the ground gained on Saturday, and further extended our gains last night and this morning. Prisoners are still coming in. The total has not been counted. We easily beat off a counter-attack north-east of Pozieres.

The week's fighting has inflicted severe German defeats with heavy losses. We took the strongly defended localities of Falfemont Farm, Leuze Wood, Guillemont and Ginchy, despite the utmost German efforts to retain them. The spirit and dash of our troops in this severe fighting, in the face of frequent determined counter-attacks and constant and intense artillery fire have been magnificent. The fine work of the Irish troops from Connaught, Leinster, and Munster, which has been already mentioned in connection with the capture of Guillemont, was continued during the attack on Ginchy. Some of the English regiments, also Warwickshires, Kents, Devonshires, Gloucestershires, Surreys, Cornwalls, Welsh, and Scottish regiments were also engaged in all last week's fighting, and have done splendid work.

In a report on Sunday night Sir Douglas Haig stated that the enemy at mid-day counter-attacked north of Ginchy but was repulsed.

Three hundred and fifty prisoners and five machine-guns were brought in during the day. Airmen closely followed the attack on Saturday, and at times engaged hostile troops with machine-gun fire. There were many aerial combats. We destroyed three German machines and drove down others damaged.

We entered the enemy's trenches at Neuve Chapelle, and inflicted severe casualties.

FRENCH REPEL ATTACKS.

A Paris communique issued at midnight on Sunday stated:—The Germans south of the Somme twice attacked south-west of Berny. They met with a complete check. Except for the artillery the day was calm elsewhere.

Our aeroplanes over the enemy lines had 40 combats on Saturday. The German air fleet sustained considerable losses. Five machines were smashed up. Our air squadron dropped 480 bombs on railway stations and depots at Chauny. Eighteen aeroplanes dropped numerous shells on military establishments in Ham, south of Peronne. Many fires were seen.

A communique issued in Paris on Sunday afternoon stated:—Many strong German attacks were made last night at various points south of the Somme. The attacks were accompanied by flame jets, which enabled the enemy to penetrate one of our new trenches between Belloy-en-Santerre and Barleux. Our vigorous counter-attacks promptly drove out the invaders. We took four machine-guns.

After violent bombardments the Germans attacked with grenades south-west of Berny, east of Deniecourt and south of Vermandovillers. After stern fighting we repulsed the Germans, compelling them to return to their trenches with very heavy losses.

GERMAN REPORTS.

A German communique states:—After a pause in Friday's fighting the battle of the Somme is pursuing its course. An English assault along a front of nine miles between Thiepval and Combles broke down in the face of the tenacity of our troops under Generals von Kirchbach and Marshall. Regiments under General von Quast sanguinarily repulsed the French on the Barleux-Belloy sector. We took a number of prisoners and six machine-guns while clearing a few trenches north-west of Chaulnes.

Air combats during the last few days have been chiefly on the Somme. The enemy lost nine machines. Our anti-aircraft guns brought down three more. Lieutenant Boelcke brought down his 22nd victim.

IRISH TROOPS.

CHARGE THROUGH GUILLEMONT

Mr. Philip Gibbs, writing from the British Headquarters in France, says:—

The charge of the Irish troops through Guillemont on Sunday, the 3rd inst., was one of the most astonishing feats in the war. It was a wild, irresistible assault, with pipes playing.

One of the English riflemen who supported the Irish right said they were like a human avalanche. They stormed the German first, second, and third lines as if possessed. If there is any fault, their progress was too fast, as there was no time to safeguard the ground gained; consequently, Germans climbing out of the dugouts began sniping. In one underground chamber twenty Germans quietly surrendered, clicked their heels, and saluted, the officer offering a gold watch to the English corporal.

Most of the opposition was encountered between two sunken roads south-west of the ground on which Guillemont once stood. The English made an enveloping movement, and were faced with a fusillade of rifle fire and bombs from the Germans coming out of the dugouts; also with machine-gun fire from Ginchy and Falfemont Farm; but the British fired and advanced as though manoeuvring. The wounded crawled into shell-holes, shouting, "Go on, boys!" and not asking for help. The Germans ran. Our men followed. A German officer who surrendered said, "If you run like that you'll be in Berlin before we are in England."

We took six hundred prisoners, who were in a pitiful condition—broken spirited and trembling with fear. One officer, proudly indifferent to fate, made a contrast with the others, who clung about the necks of our officers, begging for mercy. Out of the garrison of two thousand, hardly one escaped. As an example of quiet heroism, one man whose face was terribly smashed by a piece of shell, refused a stretcher, walked back to a dressing-station, and lay down.

MR. ASQUITH AT FRONT.

INQUIRIES ABOUT SUPPLIES.

The British Prime Minister, Mr. Asquith, made a tour of inspection on the Somme front. He made very careful inquiries about supplies and the quality of the ammunition being received by the troops.

VERDUN STRUGGLE.

LONDON, Sept. 11.

A French communique on Sunday stated: We captured another hundred prisoners in a brilliant action east of Fleury. Our curtain of fire and machine guns checked an attack against our new positions west of Fort Vaux road.

German coups-de-main at Eparges and Parroy Forest were without result.

An enemy aviator dropped four bombs in Belfort, but there were no casualties. Adjutant Barrau made two night flights, during which he bombed a powder factory at Rottwell, setting fire to the buildings.

A German communique on Sunday stated:—Fresh fighting has occurred south of Thiaumont Work. East of Fleury we drove out the enemy after they had penetrated our positions.

GERMAN CASUALTIES.

TOTAL OF 3,376,000.

LONDON, Sept. 11.

The Press Bureau announces that the German casualties reported for August were 240,957, of whom 42,732 were killed, and 44,674 prisoners of war and missing.

The total German casualties are now 3,376,134, of whom 832,163 are dead, and 339,769 prisoners or missing.

WAR FINANCE.

BRITAIN AND FRANCE.

ALLIES TO POOL THEIR GOLD.

LONDON, Sept. 11.

The French Minister for Finance, M. Ribot, when interviewed, said: We are determined to introduce the income tax, and thanks to the elasticity of this form of taxation we will be able to meet a good part of our liabilities. But undue haste in taxation will only scare the country. We have arranged with Mr. Asquith and Mr. M'Kenna that the Allies will pool their gold in order to render the collective financial position the more solid. To enable England to maintain her gold standard and enlarge the scope of her credit in the United States, the Bank of France is placing sterling at the disposal of the British Treasury, and the Treasury is opening a credit in favour of France in London. The gold will be returned to the coffers of the Bank of France after the war.

"DIZZY DANCE WITH MILLIONS."

The Paris correspondent of the "Daily Chronicle" says that M. Ribot, Minister for Finance, presents his budget on Tuesday. His speech will be a dizzy dance with millions. It is difficult to know where the money comes from while the war is impoverishing the world. It demonstrates the immensity of accumulated wealth.

A new loan will be issued at the beginning of October, carrying five per cent. rentes. The amount is unlimited, and the issue price is not stated. The last loan was stable at 90, and is expected to yield 5½ per cent. net.

ARMENIAN HORRORS

30,000 STARVING.

MISSIONARY'S DESCRIPTION.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.

A despatch from a Presbyterian missionary in Northern Arabia describes the awful sufferings of the Armenians at Meskene. He saw women and children throw themselves into trenches and beg the grave-diggers to bury them. The Armenians here have no bread or tents. At Hama he saw 7000 deportees, of whom 3000 were naked, and living on locusts and dogs. The men dig graves while awaiting death. He often saw whole rows of ghastly forms rise out of graves and beg bread and water. The number starving at Hama, Rekka, and Meskene exceeds 30,000. Cases are reported of men fighting over the bodies of the dying in order to obtain fresh food.

ROUMANIAN ADVANCE.

IN CARPATHIANS.

STRONG POSTS TAKEN.

ENEMY CLAIMS SILISTRIA.

LONDON, Sept. 11.

The "Times" correspondent at Roumanian headquarters says that the Roumanian advance in the Carpathian mountains is most satisfactory. The mountains are 4500 feet high and all are very strongly fortified. The gallant Roumanians succeeded in dislodging the enemy from strong posts, in spite of a desperate resistance.

The fire from the Danube fleet aided the resistance of the Roumanians at Tutrakan, on the southern frontier. The garrison inflicted very serious losses on the enemy, who left piles of corpses in front of the Roumanian trenches. The Germans and Bulgarians were in much superior strength. They attacked in massed formation, and were supported by violent fire from heavy artillery.

HUNGARIAN REFUGEES.

A message received via Berne says the inhabitants of 14 counties in Hungary have fled to Budapest, where the situation is serious from hunger, owing to the shortage of supplies.

GUARDING INFORMATION.

According to a Copenhagen message the Russians stopped Count Czernin, Austrian Ambassador at Bucharest, and 100 other Austrians while homeward bound, in order to prevent them getting to Germany early with a supply of useful information as to Roumania's latest military measures.

TUTRAKAN.

A German wireless message which has been received in New York says that a Bulgarian official communique reports that Tutrakan fortress and bridgehead have been captured.

ENEMY REPORTS.

A German communique on Sunday stated:—We have come in touch with the Roumanians south of Dorna Watra (where the Roumanian and Russian troops junctioned). Silistria (an important town of 11,000 people, on the Danube, in Dobrudja) has fallen. There have been sanguinary Roumanian and Russian losses during the past few days.

Our submarines shelled the town and harbour works at the Roumanian port of Mangalia. Hydroplanes bombed the grain sheds, railway station, and Russian warships at Constanza.

AUSTRIA AND PEACE.

INTERESTING ADMISSIONS.

A New York message says that Count Burian, the Austro-Hungarian Minister for Foreign Affairs, interviewed, admitted that Austria would hail peace with delight, but not the peace the Allies want to impose. "We are unwilling to discuss peace while the Allies want to take part of our territory. It is not true that we are eager for peace on any terms. I admit that we were surprised that Roumania finally came to a decision so quickly. We had not offered Roumania territorial concessions. We knew in June that Italy and M. Bratiano had made a definite bargain. M. Bratiano hoped to play the part of taking from the Austrian corpse what he could, but the Allies resisted Roumania's declaration of war.

"Our relations with America are satisfactory, but we maintain that America's exportation of munitions to the Allies has protracted the war and thereby inflicted irreparable damage on mankind.

"Some may contend that Austria should, for military reasons, originate peace overtures. But we will never agree to that while our antagonists speak of partitioning our country."

PLACATING HUNGARY.

GERMANY PROMISES A VICTORY.

A Berne wireless message states:—The adjournment of the Hungarian Parliament until the 28th, when the Reichstag reassembles, is not merely a coincidence. General von Hindenburg promised a striking victory. The German Emperor thereupon telegraphed to the Hungarian Premier (Count Tisza), who suspended the Hungarian session, which terminated in disorderly scenes.

SALONICA.

BULGARIANS RETIRE.

PARIS, Sept. 11.

A French communique on Sunday stated: The Bulgarians on the Salonica front east of Vetrenik evacuated many trenches, abandoning material.

GREECE.

ENTENTE MINISTERS INSULTED.

An Athens message says:—Armed men entered the courtyard of the French Legation while the Entente Ministers were holding a conference, and fired six pistol shots, crying, "Long live the King! Down with England and France!" They then fled. M. Zaimis, the Greek Premier, called on the Ministers and apologised.

The Government has decided to put down the so-called reservists' leagues, which are encouraged by the pro-German press. They sent armed patrols to break in and search the houses of supporters of M. Venizelos, and committed other outrages.

NAVAL AEROPLANES.

BOMB RAILWAY SIDING.

LONDON, Sept. 10.

An official message states:—Naval aeroplanes on Saturday afternoon bombed the railway siding and ammunition dump at Lichtervelde, in Belgium. They returned safely.

ROLL OF HONOUR.

A report that Major J. W. Hills, Unionist M.P. for Durham, had been killed in action, has been corrected. Major Hills is alive. His nephew has been killed.

HALICZ BATTLE.

RUSSIAN ATTACK.

SEMI-CIRCLE AROUND TOWN.

ENEMY'S FLANK MENACED.

LONDON, Sept. 11.

A Berne message states:—The Russians in the form of a half-circle are surrounding Halicz, which they continue to bombard. The capture of Halicz will menace the flank of the enemy's line on the Gnila Lipa, which is also the second last line of the Lemberg defences.

The Russians continue their Carpathian advance methodically. The junction of Russian with the Roumanian armies will accomplish the surrounding of Austria.

CARPATHIANS BATTLE.

A Russian communique states:—Seven German aeroplanes flew over the Kovel-Rovische railway. Captain Kazakov successively attacked and brought down two of them.

In the battles in the wooded Carpathians between August 31 and September 6, the Russians captured 1900 prisoners, 26 machine-guns, and two mountain guns.

German seaplanes made two unsuccessful raids on Runo Island, in the Gulf of Riga. In Irben Straits Midshipman Safonov compelled a German to alight in the water.

ENEMY REPORTS.

A German communique states:—Apart from repeated fruitless Russian attacks against the Bavarians on the Stokhod, the Eastern situation is unchanged from the sea to the Carpathians, where the enemy continues his attacks, gaining ground west of Schipoth. Otherwise the attacks were everywhere repulsed.

ISONZO FRONT.

ARTILLERY ACTIVE.

AUSTRIAN ATTACK FAILS.

ROME, Sept. 11.

An Italian communique on Sunday stated:—The Austrians, after a hand-grenade preparation on the Dolje-Tolmino sector, north of Gorizia, attempted to break through, but were immediately driven back. There is considerable artillery activity on the Lower Isonzo. We used trench mortars with good effect.

ITALIANS IN ALBANIA.

MORE POSITIONS OCCUPIED.

An Italian communique on Sunday stated:—We occupied, yesterday, Albanian heights between Porto Palermo and Subasc, upon the River Zrinos, without opposition, in order to protect the southern front at Valona.

AERODROME BURNED.

DESTRUCTION OF ZEPPELINS REPORTED.

It is reported from Copenhagen that a large aerodrome near Frankfort has been burned down.

Four uncompleted Zeppelins and 15 aeroplanes were destroyed.

ROMANTIC DISCOVERY.

PRINCESS IN FIGHTING LINE.

LONDON, Sept. 10.

A report from Petrograd describes a romantic discovery. A wounded soldier who took part in a battle in Volhynia, and is now in Kharkoff hospital, has been recognised to be Princess Volonsky, aged 22. Her husband, father, and brother were killed early in the war. The Princess cut off her hair, enlisted, and fought for months on the south-west front. She was discovered and sent to Kieff, but eluded the vigilance of the guards, and returned to the fighting line, where she was wounded.

BLESSING THE AIR.

FRENCH PRAYERS FOR AVIATORS.

PARIS, Sept. 10.

The ceremony of blessing the air was carried out for the first time at a town on the French Atlantic coast. The idea of placing aviators under the Virgin's protection is attributed to the Paris Vicar-General's brother. The ceremony began with the celebration of a requiem mass for the souls of aviators who have been killed. Then a procession of the clergy took place, and from a point dominating the sea the air and sea were blessed.

MR. HUGHES'S POLICY.

APPROVED BY WOMEN.

LONDON, Sept. 10.

Mrs. Pankhurst, who has returned from America, addressed a meeting of women in Hyde Park to-day, at which it was resolved that Mr. Hughes must be given a seat in the War Council.

Mrs. Pankhurst said: Mr. Hughes has realised the character of the conflict. Our immediate duty is to get this unique man into the inner council of the nation. The Welshman in the Cabinet wants the other Welshman to come and strengthen his hand.

WAR PENSIONS.

3748 IN NEW ZEALAND.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Monday.

LIEUT. A. JACKA, V.C.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

The Minister for Defence (Senator Pearce) has received a cable message from the commandant, A.I.F. headquarters, London, to the effect that Lieutenant Albert Jacka, V.C., who had been incorrectly reported by local press to have died from wounds, is still at the Third General London Hospital. His condition is satisfactory.

THE GOVERNOR AT INVERELL.

INVERELL, Monday.

Yesterday the Governor Sir Gerald Strickland and party, and some 40 other guests, were entertained at a picnic party at Arrawatta, by Mr. G. B. Ring, Mayor of Inverell, and to afternoon tea at Arrawatta Homestead by Mrs. Bowling. In the interval the party visited the Arrawatta cheese factory, and several of the dairy farms. The milking Shorthorns, Jerseys, and other breeds, and the Corriedale sheep were also inspected by his Excellency. The Governor's party left in motor cars for Glen Innes this morning.

WAR NOTES.

A GENERAL LULL.

This morning's war messages suggest that one of those inexplicable general lulls, which have been of infrequent occurrence lately, is temporarily affecting practically all fronts. This, of course, is only a coincidence, and does not in itself contain any special significance. On the Western front, the British and French have just concluded advances of a most valuable nature, and are in all probability consolidating their new positions and moving up their artillery prior to a further renewal of their big push along the both sides of the Somme. General Haig's messages show that all enemy counter-attacks following on the latest British advance have been repulsed, but, apart from this, his reports are mainly confined to expressions of appreciation of the admirable work of the different British regiments at Guillemont and Ginchy. In the past the troops from oversea have frequently been picked out for special mention of this kind, and we have all felt a thrill of pride on reading of the excellent work of the Australians at Pozieres and elsewhere. General Haig's message regarding the spirit and dash of the Leinsters, Munsters, Kents, Surreys, and others will give rise to feelings in the counties mentioned similar to those experienced here on reading of Australian successes. On the other vital section of the Western front the French are holding on to the ground recently gained east of the Meuse, and the great German offensive towards Verdun remains nothing more than an unpleasant memory of the not too distant past. The Italians have little to report, apart from the repulse of an Austrian attack a few miles above Tolmino, on the Isonzo front, about 15 miles north of Gorizia. They have also strengthened their southern front at Valona, in Albania, by occupying some heights, but have made no important advances towards the north since their recent raids. The Russian official message only refers to successful feats by airmen, while unofficial messages suggest that the important enemy post of Halicz, in Galicia, is doomed, and that the Russians are methodically sweeping the enemy from the Carpathians. The most important item of news in connection with the situation in the Near-East is the German claim to have captured Silistria, the Roumanian fortified town on the southern bank of the Danube, at the western extremity of the old border which separated Dobrudja from Bulgaria prior to the second Balkan war. Silistria has an interesting history, as it was besieged by the Russians in 1854, when it was defended by a Turkish garrison, which repulsed all attempts to storm the place. The Russians eventually raised the siege after having lost over 12,000 men. If the German communique is correct, the Roumanians have lost another important defensive position on this side of the Danube, and the enemy has penetrated well over 40 miles into Dobrudja.

VILLAGES IN THE SOMME AREA.

Now that the British have taken Guillemont and Ginchy and the French have pushed forward their line on the southern side of the river, we are likely to see new names of French villages appearing shortly in the cabled messages regarding the fighting. The nomenclature of these villages in Picardy is apt to lead to some confusion, as many bear exactly the same name, while others are similar except for the omission or addition of one or two letters. The name "Estrees," which corresponds to the English place name "Street," is very common, and villages of this name appear frequently at different points along the main roads. There are, of course, dozens of hamlets bearing the name of "Villers," while other insignificant little villages well behind the German lines in the direction in which the British and French are moving bear such well-known names as "Mons," "Metz," and "Vaux." A village which might have caused some confusion at the commencement of the Anglo-French offensive was "Gommecourt," on the northern side of the Somme. This was the most northerly point of the British attack, and less than seven miles to the eastward of it stands another village known as "Gomiecourt," which might easily have been mistaken for it by anyone taking a casual glance at the map of the area affected. Vermandovillers is another village which has caused some misconception, owing to the comparatively close proximity of the separate and distinct villages of Vermand and Ovillers. A recent French communique which claimed that the capture of the village of Omiecourt had resulted in the linking up of their positions north and south of the Somme might have left a doubt in the minds of certain readers following the war with the aid of an incomplete map. Most of the large scale maps show the village of Omiecourt lying about a mile and a half to the east of Chaulnes, but few maps show Omiecourt le Clery, a small cluster of houses on the Somme, directly south of Clery. The fact that the French were advancing near Chaulnes at the same time as they announced the capture of Omiecourt might have suggested to many that they had taken the village east of that town. This would be an extremely unlikely occurrence while the Germans still occupied Chaulnes, but the reference to the linking up of the French lines north and south of the river showed that the village captured was Omiecourt le Clery on the Somme.

AUSTRIA AND PEACE.

Baron Burian has again expressed a desire for peace, according to a message received by way of New York. If he has been correctly reported, the Austrian Minister for Foreign Affairs has slightly moderated his views regarding Austria's position and the Central Powers' prospects. These views were placed on record by Baron Burian in a letter which was read before the Hungarian Parliament on June 14 last, which was a reply to statements made by Sir Edward Grey. In this he wrote:—"Sir Edward Grey says that the war will not come to an end because the Central Powers consider themselves the victors and the Entente defeated, but that the Entente will not be defeated. Of course we cannot order the Entente to admit its defeat, or to abandon hope of a favourable change in the situation. But, in face of the clear facts, things cannot be turned upside down. . . . The reality is that, as the reward of our just cause and the superhuman efforts of our heroic troops, the scales of the world war in all the war theatres are in favour of our Quadruple Alliance, and that we shall not allow success to be snatched from us." This statement of the case for Austria has been rather unfortunate for Baron Burian in view of the later developments in the progress of the war. By substituting the words "Entente Allies" for "Quadruple Alliance," his own words, uttered only three short months ago, might be flung back at him as constituting a fitting reply to his dolorous protests against any suggestion of annexation of Austrian territory. Shortly after Baron Burian wrote the bellicose sentences quoted above the Austrian armies were fleeing before General Brussiloff's victorious forces in Bukovina, Volhynia, and Galicia. Later on the Italians commenced to drive back the Austrians in Trentino, and followed up their success there by another big offensive along the Isonzo front, resulting in the capture of Gorizia. Finally the Roumanians invaded Transylvania, and drove the Austrians and Hungarians out of Orsova. That "favourable change in the situation" which Baron Burian suggested the Allies fruitlessly hoped for has come about, and he does not seem disposed now to "order the Entente to admit its defeat." The "scales of the world war in all the war theatres are in favour" not of the Quadruple Alliance, but of the Entente Allies. No doubt Baron Burian would "hail peace with delight," but desirable though a separate peace with Austria might be, it is doubtful whether Roumania could now be induced to forego her aspirations regarding Transylvania, or whether the Entente Powers would allow success to be snatched from them by agreeing to the terms which Baron Burian would find acceptable.

LATE WAR NEWS.

THE SOMME FRONT.

TWO MORE COUNTER-ATTACKS.

LONDON, Sept. 11.

Sir Douglas Haig, in his noon report on Monday, says: We repulsed two more counter-attacks at Ginchy, and drove off several small detachments of infantry at Mouquet Farm and Pozieres.

We entered the German trenches at several places between Neuville St. Vaast and the La Basse Canal, taking some prisoners.

RECRUITING.

THE DAY'S ENLISTMENTS.

At Victoria Barracks yesterday 158 men offered themselves for enlistment. Of that number 84 were accepted.

Recruiting, as usual, took a bit of an upward turn yesterday, when a number of good men came along. There have been many instances of three brothers joining the A.I.F., but yesterday provided the first instance in which three brothers arrived together at the enrolling office with a view of offering their services. They came from Pyrmont, and one was just over 18, the next a few months over 19, and the eldest 22. They made a fine trio.

Close on their heels followed two aged men, well wrapped up in overcoats, their long grey beards blowing all ways at once in the biting westerly. They stated that, seeing that men were wanted, and being without responsibilities and friends of old standing, they thought they might set an example to younger men, and at the same time their services might be utilised in some way. They were told that being over the age they could not be considered, but at the same time their patriotic action was appreciated.

Among the other applicants for military honours were an alderman from Hamilton, a frenchpolisher, a pastrycook, an accountant, a council employee from Erskineville, a tiler and slater, a City Council employee, a draftsman, a grocer, a groom, a buyer of softgoods, a pipe-setter from Hornsby, a bank clerk from Cheltenham, a tarpaulin repairer, a sailor, a live stock manager, a Manly barman, a municipal employee from Surry Hills, a chauffeur from Enfield, and a shorthand writer and typist from Arncliffe. Others included a glass bottle blower, a jeweller, an oxy-acetylene welder, a car cleaner, a farrier from Barrington, a farm hand from Wedderburn, a statistician, a commission agent, a theatrical artist, a shearer from Goondah, a shipwright, a process worker, a fruiterer from Scarborough, a drover, and a wood-working machinist.

Lieutenant E. W. Stutchbury, of Drummoyne, has been promoted to a captaincy. He was wounded in the Gallipoli campaign, but rejoined his unit, and is now serving in France.

Second-Lieutenant A. M. Garbett has been promoted to a lieutenancy.

Private E. Orpin, who was employed in the stereotyping branch of the "Sydney Mail" Office, was presented on Friday evening with a luminous wristlet watch. He will leave with a draft of the Army Medical Corps.

Private Norman Ellison, of the reporting staff of the "Sydney Morning Herald," was on Friday presented with a wristlet watch. The presentation was made on behalf of the staff by the editor (Mr. T. W. Heney).

MEETINGS.

To-day and on Wednesday and Thursday, Sergeants Galli and Donald will hold recruiting meetings from 12 to 12.30, at the new abattoirs, Homebush.

This evening Sergeants Galli and Donald will appeal for recruits at Charing Cross, Waverley.

To-morrow, between 12.30 and 12.45, Sergeants Saunders and Thomson will speak at Lipton's soap works, Waterloo. In the evening Sergeants Galli and Donald will be the speakers at Ebley-street, Waverley.

NEW ZEALAND ENLISTMENTS.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Monday.

The Recruiting Board has decided that for the future the period of enlistment ahead shall be 3 months, instead of 6 months. Recruits must, therefore, expect to be called up for training within three months of enlistment.

ADDRESSES OF NEXT-OF-KIN.

A great deal of trouble and delay in advising next of kin of injuries or sickness of men of the A.I.F., has been caused through the fact that the next of kin, when making a change of address, do not notify the military.

MECHANICAL TRANSPORT.

Personal applications from A.I.F. and C.M.F. officers desirous of transferring to or enlisting in the Mechanical Transport Corps should be made to Captain H. S. Cusack, O.C. Mechanical Transport Section, Victoria Barracks, Sydney. Applicants must produce evidence of possession of practical knowledge of motor vehicles and their machinery, and must be experienced drivers.

BAND READY TO ENLIST.

EMMAVILLE, Monday.

Mr. T. Nugent, bandmaster of the Emmaville Miners' Brass Band, has announced that the band is now preparing to enlist in a body, and is going to apply for permission to do so as a band in the Army Service Corps.

1800 BUILDINGS BURNT.

GREAT FIRE IN JAPAN.

BRISBANE, Monday.

News has been brought by the steamer St. Albans, which arrived from the East yesterday, that a great fire occurred at Hakodate, Japan, on the afternoon of August 2. It was estimated that 1800 buildings were reduced to ashes. Eight streets were devastated. Soldiers, firemen, and policemen worked together in combating the flames.

ATTEMPTED ARSON.

Several business firms in the city have reported to the police that attempts have been made to set fire to their premises. The firms in question are:—

Riley Bros., drapers, George-street, Sydney. At 12.50 p.m. on Saturday the manager, Mr. W. Sullivan, discovered some newspaper containing chemicals smouldering on one of the shelves.

Messrs. Saxton and Binns.—In their timber yards one of the workmen on Saturday morning found a quantity of cotton waste rolled in a newspaper and a pocket handkerchief saturated with chemicals. It was taken into the office, and on being opened burst into flames. On the opposite side of the yards a similar package was found alight, but the flames were quickly extinguished.

At Messrs. W. Buckingham, drapers, Oxford-street, on Saturday morning, a quantity of cotton waste was discovered soaked with chemicals on the second floor.

On Friday evening a fire broke out at Messrs. Nock and Kirby's, Ltd., and after it was put out cotton waste was found nearby, which had been soaked with kerosene.

At Messrs. E. Way and Co., Pitt-street, a fire was also discovered.

An employee of Mick Simmons, Ltd., found a quantity of cotton waste on the firm's premises which was soaked with chemicals.

The attempts to fire business premises is supposed to be the work of a gang.

ELECTRIC LIGHT INTERRUPTION.

A fierce gust of wind on Sunday morning blew down a limb of a tree in Preston-avenue, Double Bay, and forced two overhead bare wires carrying electric current into contact, causing the safety fuses to melt at the distributing centres at the corner of William-street and New South Head-road, Double Bay, and at the corner of Wunulla-road and New South Head-road, Point Piper. This had the effect of interrupting the supply to about one-third of all users of electricity in the immediate neighbourhood of Double Bay and Point Piper. The last of the householders inconvenienced was re-connected between 9 and 10 o'clock on Sunday evening. Another interruption of an exactly similar character also occurred in portion of the Randwick district on Sunday.

CARTERS' STRIKE.

GRIFFITH, Monday.

The carters engaged on the irrigation works at Griffith are on strike. Only 20 men are idle, but unless the trouble is soon settled, 500 employees may be affected. The refusal of the ganger in charge of the transport to pay a levy of 6s, imposed by the Griffith branch of the Railway Workers and General Labourers' Association, in connection with a previous strike at Gogeldrie, is the cause of the strike. It is stated that one whole gang and numerous individual employees have not paid the same levy.

WAGE LIMIT.

JURISDICTION OF WAGES BOARDS.

INDUSTRIAL JUDGMENT.

An important decision affecting professional men in public employ was delivered by Mr. Justice Heydon in the Industrial Court yesterday. In the course of a judgment in the matter of the application by the Professional Officers' Association of New South Wales for the constitution of a board for civil and other engineers, architects, surveyors, barristers, doctors, solicitors, and other professional men in the employ of certain Government departments, the City Council, and shire or municipal councils, his Honor said that one of the grounds of opposition was that those professional men were not under the Industrial Disputes Act at all. That was, he said, the first time that attention had been called to the important point, and it was so novel and so important that Mr. Justice Edmunds and he had considered it together, and decided on a joint judgment.

His Honor said that among the points considered were, What were the real extent to which employed persons were intended to be brought under the Act, for what classes was it designed, and what were the limits to which it could be stretched? The Act had been examined, and it was surprising how very little there was in it to show that it was designed for any but the wage-earning classes. "Employer" was defined to mean a person, etc., employing persons working in any industry, and "employee" to mean "a person working in any industry, whether on wages or piecework rates, or as members of a butty-gang." Those last words, he said, seemed very strongly to suggest the class of workers intended to be covered by the Act. The general word "occupation" was limited in the definition of "industry" to employments; and, therefore, introduced the word "employee," and in the definition of "calling" was associated with "craft," which related directly to handicraftsmen.

After dealing at length with the constitution of groups of callings in which the word "employee" and other general words were used, his Honor said that Mr. Justice Edmunds and he had come to the conclusion that the Act was limited in its scope, and that the general words mentioned must be restricted in their application. On what principle, however, the division was to be made they had found it exceedingly difficult to determine. A natural view, which suggested itself at once, was that it should be restricted to wage-earners only. There was a great deal to be said in support of that, but they found that they could not tie themselves down to it. "We have come at last to the conclusion," proceeded his Honor, "that the line to be drawn must be an arbitrary one, based upon the income earned. Even this is far from satisfactory, for it is evident that anyone who is a rank-and-file wage-earner in any of the occupations mentioned in the Act must be under the Act, however high wages may in time rise. This objection does not apply so strongly to the salaried men, whose position has in the main created the difficulty, and as to whom what is really wanted is to separate those who belong to what is ordinarily called the working class from those who belong to what is called the middle class. In the case of the wage-earner, therefore, we seek a line which will cover, at the present time, all who appear to be under the Act; and in the case of the salaried men a line which will—very roughly, no doubt, as is the case with all arbitrary lines, but still, perhaps, not very incorrectly—separate the two classes mentioned. From these points of view we decide to lay down that wages up to 2s 1d per hour, 16s 8d a day, or £5 per week; and salaries of £18 15s per month, or £225 a year, are within the jurisdiction of boards, and may be awarded by them, but that anything above those limits is outside the purview of the Act. This does not apply to the shipmasters, officers, and engineers in the shipping group, though almost all of these are getting rates well below the line we have drawn, and it relates only to the regular wage. We say nothing of either overtime or piecework. If either of these may, or actually does, bring the wage over the limits we have specified, that will not affect the jurisdiction of the board. The same remark applies to special rates for nightwork, extra rates for casuals, extras for travelling time or country work, or for special classes of goods, extra rates for positions of authority, such as underground overmen in mines, as long as the worker is by his occupation within the Act, and so on. If special cases of wages above the line exist, they can be brought under our notice. The line we have drawn refers simply to the regular rate of wage, and is given simply as a dividing line, leaving and limiting the Act to those for whom we think that it was intended. We have found it impossible to lay down, without fuller knowledge than we possess, a definition of workers who have or have not prospects of advancement, but boards should keep the distinction in mind, and remember that the man whose present position represents simply the bottom rung of a ladder has not the claims for consideration and protection possessed by a man, such, for instance, as a journeyman carpenter, who is on a platform, who has no prospect in his trade of more than a journeyman's wage, with, perhaps, something added as a foreman. There are existing awards which deal with payments above the line we have drawn. Those may run their course, but all renewals of such awards and all future awards should bear this judgment in mind. Representations as to special cases may be made to the Court."

Q.V. MARKETS.

CITY'S WHITE ELEPHANT.

LATEST REMODELLING SCHEME.

Another effort is to be made to turn the Queen Victoria Markets into a payable proposition.

A scheme for remodelling the building was submitted to the City Council by the Lord Mayor (Alderman R. D. Meagher) last night. The Lord Mayor said that on the minute he had laid before the council in March concerning this familiar white elephant he had shown that during the past 18 years there had been a net loss of £151,027, or an average annual net loss of £8390, which, if the land tax and unimproved capital value rate together with the annual interest on the value of the granted land was taken into consideration, would be increased to a loss of £19,471 per annum on the average for the past 18 years.

"Accompanied by the town clerk, city building surveyor, and comptroller of assets, I personally visited and made a thorough inspection of the buildings," says the Lord Mayor, "and have come to the conclusion that a thoroughly comprehensive scheme of remodelling and consequent improvement is the only possible satisfactory way out of the difficulty. The matter was very fully discussed by the responsible officers and myself. I gave instructions on general lines for a scheme, which has been prepared. On the ground floor it is proposed to dispense with the internal arcade, producing a length of shops extending from George-street to York-street. The George-street frontage shows a series of arcading arranged with island windows complete, and this distinctive feature, with removal of alternate trachyte columns will undoubtedly form a complete and up-to-date improvement, materially enhancing the attractiveness of the markets building area and the neighbourhood generally. The existing heavy-post awning, which extends the full length of the building, has long been regarded as most unsightly and obstructive. The remodelling proposed provides for the removal of the heavy awnings and the substitution of a light modern cantilever and ceiled awning. The Druitt-street entrance will be closed up and one large shop formed, extending from George-street to York-street, with angle island windows. On the first and second floors it is proposed to decrease the width of floor space by cantilevering over a portion of the open areas. The total area of the floor space gained in consequence of the alterations will amount to 22,500 super feet.

"The details enumerated form the salient points in the scheme, and constitute the most distinctive features. It is estimated that the cost of the whole work will be £36,000. An alternative scheme, dispensing with certain features, has also been prepared. I am satisfied that if the main scheme is adopted as a whole without material modification satisfactory financial results will follow."

The Lord Mayor's proposals were referred to the finance committee for consideration and report.

UNITED CHARITIES' DAY.

Arrangements for the United Charities Fund's effort on Saturday, October 14, are well in hand. Committees have been formed in each suburb, and 3000 lady collectors have been secured. House-stalls will be erected in Martin-place and Moore-street, including one for a committee of French ladies. An artistic button will be sold for a silver coin, also a gold design for a gold coin. A procession will parade through the city, and a carnival will be held in the showground during the afternoon. Ladies desirous of assisting in the street collection should apply to the secretary, Mr. Arthur Upjohn, 163 Pitt-street, Sydney.

100,000 CHILDREN.

TO VISIT THE NEW ZOO.

FIRST BATCH YESTERDAY.

Three thousand children and three hundred school teachers made a trip to Taronga Park yesterday. To the 3000 it was a day of days. So, indeed, it was to the 300, but for each party the phrase would hold a different significance. Taronga Park, being the location of the new Zoo—a harbourage for wild animals—was a singularly appropriate rendezvous for the 3000. It was the rowdiest day ever spent on Bradley's Head. It is the intention of the Education Department to take 100,000 of the school children of Sydney and suburbs to the new Zoo. Yesterday's detachment was the initial batch. They came from Waverley, Bondi, Clovelly, and Paddington Superior Public Schools, and from the Christian Brothers' College, Waverley. Four thousand tickets in all were issued—a proportion of the parents accompanying the boisterous young army. There was no mishap.

Special trams waited as close to the schools as possible, and started away about 9 o'clock. At the Quay the police completely held up the traffic while the children marched four deep across the tram lines to the wharf. It was a difficult matter for some mothers to keep a soldierly alignment, burdened as so many were with amazingly bulky hampers and oftentimes with a protesting baby. The turnstiles presented a momentary check, but they were necessary, because word of the day's pleasuring had been noised abroad, and uninvited youngsters from every quarter were on the alert to squeeze through. In ten minutes over 1000 were embarked. At half-hour intervals two other boats followed down. Watching the youngsters reach the Quay to embark one wondered how young Australia had ever come to earn the reputation of being eager and ready but undisciplined. Watching them at their journey's end one ceased to wonder longer. Rushing and shouting they broke loose up the hillside, tearing across lawns and flower beds and spilling peanuts as they ran in a wild contest to reach the monkey cages first.

There was something in the scramble which recalled that dash up another hillside—the dash by the elder brothers after the Turk at Gallipoli. The teachers called, but the youngsters went on to where the monkeys were entrenched in deep pits, and delivered a shower of nuts that must have literally bruised the astonished animals. Later boats brought on reinforcements just as eager. There is not a great number of monkeys at the Zoo, and three thousand sharp-shooters—although only munitioned with nuts—can give a few monkeys a lively time.

Yesterday was a day of days for the seals also. One youngster early discovered that they ducked their heads with alacrity whenever a stone or pebble was dropped on them. The seals spent the greater part of the day ducking their heads—and, so far, only 4000 out of their 100,000 promised visitors have paid their call. Unfortunately, not very many of the fine natural cages in the Park are stocked, and the kiddies soon exhausted the sights. Perhaps that was why they overran the reserved and grassed sections. They had as little respect for barbed wire as their brothers at the front, and the shrubs and the scarcely set turf received somewhat rude treatment. Some of the gardeners were frenzied at the spectacle, but the head keeper (Mr. Miller) laughingly cried, "Bless us; it is nothing. I am used to wild animals. What can one expect with 4000 youngsters here?"

The services of 15 returned soldiers were requisitioned as rangers, and a few additional Zoo attendants were put on, but it is questionable whether there was sufficient control over the children. They romped in an entirely innocent abandon of joy, and did no wrong knowingly.

During the day the Premier, the Minister for Education, the Director of Education, and Messrs. Fingleton and Osborne, Ms.L.A., visited the festivities, accompanied by Mr. A. C. Mackenzie, general manager of the Sydney Ferries, and Mr. Le Souef, director of the Zoo.

To-day a further batch will make a trip. An additional thousand will be taken each day onwards, as yesterday proved that the transport presented few difficulties.

STOCKTON FATALITY

CORONER'S INQUIRY.

NEWCASTLE, Monday.

The District Coroner (Mr. C. Hibble) opened an inquest to-day at the courthouse into the circumstances surrounding the deaths of Edward John Dyer, his wife, Alice Esther Dyer, and their infant, who were drowned through the motor fatality that occurred on the Stockton Government vehicle punt last Sunday week.

Mr. A. H. James appeared for the relations of the late Mrs. A. E. Dyer; Mr. P. H. Monckley for Miss Ella Phyllis Dyer, sister of the late E. J. Dyer; Mr. Blackmore, of the Crown Law Office, for the Public Works Department; Mr. Braye on behalf of Mr. Horace David Cohen (who was the driver and owner of the motor car); and Inspector Cooke conducted the case for the police.

John Lee, a deck hand on the Government ferry punt, said that at 5.45 p.m. on the Sunday in question he saw a man and woman in a sulky on the port side. Horace Cohen's car came on to the punt, and when it got as far as the flap it stopped. The car then went backward. Cohen thereupon pressed a lever forward, and the car shot off at a great speed. It hit the cabin of the punt and went across on to the bulwarks. The next thing he saw was the car disappearing over the front of the punt. He rushed to the top deck of the punt for the lifebuoys, which he threw down on the deck to the engineer. He did not see what became of the sulky.

Dr. James Robert Leslie deposed that he saw a car go on to the punt slowly, then suddenly it gathered speed and hit the port bulwarks of the punt about midway. Then the car struck the back of the sulky. He saw the occupants of the sulky go up into the air, but he did not see any more, as he was getting out of his car at the time.

Horace David Cohen gave evidence, and in reply to questions by Mr. Braye said he had had fifteen years' experience with motor cars and motor cycles. He was a certificated engineer. On the Sunday he had driven the car between sixty and seventy miles without a hitch. When he reached the front of the punt his car stopped dead. He came to the conclusion that his engine had stopped, but shortly afterwards discovered that it had not. It gave a sudden jump. He closed the hand throttle, and attempted to put the foot brake on so as to pull the car up, but instead of doing that he put his foot on the accelerator. If he had pressed a foot lever in a similar position on the other car he had been accustomed to drive it would have resulted in applying the brake to the car. When in the water he did not see Dyer, but he noticed Mrs. Dyer and the child. He went down about six feet, and when he came up his wife was calling out to him, and he went to her assistance. She entreated him to go to Mrs. H. M. Cohen. A lifebelt was handy, and Mrs. Cohen did what he told her. When he saw that she was all right he tried to save Mrs. Dyer and her child. He told Mrs. Dyer to put her hand lightly on his shoulders and he would attempt to swim with her to the shore. She got him round the neck. They went down together a good way. When he came up he managed to get away from her. He was in a bad way, and had to leave her. At the time he was pulled out of the water he was pretty well done.

To Inspector Book: It is entirely my fault this accident occurred. No one else is to blame.

The Coroner, in giving his decision, said that the cause of the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Dyer and their infant was extremely distressing and painful. The motor car stopped when it got to the punt, and the driver, Mr. Horace D. Cohen, started it again, and it went off at a rush. Then, instead of breaking speed, he increased it by manipulating one of the wrong levers, really opening the accelerator. The fatal accident followed. Was the act of omission on the part of the driver of the car such as to warrant the Court saying he was culpably negligent, and so returning a verdict of manslaughter and committing him for trial. He could not say that the evidence warranted that. There was no doubt it would have been very much better if the driver could have more familiarised himself with the car. He had come to the conclusion that the case was one of very sad misadventure.

Continuing, he added that the evidence disclosed that, under the present regulations, once a license was granted the holder was entitled to drive any car. He did not think that right, and would bring it under the notice of the authorities. The conduct of Eric Haire, who was instrumental in saving life, was most gallant and brave, and he thanked Haire in the court for the good work he had done. He then returned a verdict of accidental drowning.

CITY COUNCIL.

THE CITY RAILWAY.

At last night's meeting of the City Council Alderman Barlow asked whether the council had been consulted with regard to the question of the disposal of the spoil from the city railway excavations. He had noticed that there had been a proposal to utilise the spoil in constructing a roadway around Farm Cove, and he hoped, before that was carried out, the council would be given an opportunity of expressing its views.

The Lord Mayor said that there was to be a conference on the question, at which the council would be represented, next Thursday.

A minute by the Lord Mayor suggested the advisability, in view of the impending construction of the city railway, of having a survey made immediately of the Town Hall and Queen Victoria Markets buildings from roof to basement. He pointed out that damage might be done to these buildings during the progress of the excavation and construction work, and in that event the council would be in a much stronger position in case of subsequent litigation if the proposed survey were carried out.

CLINIC FOR VENEREAL DISEASES.

Alderman Fitzgerald drew attention to an announcement that it was intended to establish a clinic for the treatment of venereal diseases at Dawes Point. He hoped a vigorous protest would be made.

The Lord Mayor replied sympathetically, and suggested to Alderman Fitzgerald that the Parliamentary representative for the district should be urged to take action.

EXHIBITION BUILDING.

A recommendation by the finance committee was adopted to the effect that an extension of the lease of the Exhibition Building, which expires on November 1, 1916, be granted to Mr. L. Foley, for 12 months. An amendment by Alderman Stephen that tenders be called was lost.

MARKET-STREET EXTENSION.

A recommendation by the works committee that the proposal for the extension of Market-street through Hyde Park be not entertained was carried by 15 votes to 2.

RATES ON SCHOOL OF ARTS.

Alderman Lindsay Thompson moved:—That in any bill promoted by the City Council, having for its object the exemption of properties from the unimproved capital value rating, provision be made for exemption of the land belonging to the School of Arts, on the ground that the school was a public educational institution, and in consequence ought to be exempt. The matter was referred to the finance committee.

WORKMEN'S DWELLINGS.

A motion by Alderman Addison that the works committee report upon the desirability of erecting workmen's dwellings on the land owned by the council in Nixon and Devonshire streets was referred to the works committee.

The City Coroner held an inquiry yesterday into the death of Harold John Whittingham, 43, a farmer, who was found dead on a vacant piece of land at Darling Point with a bullet wound in the right temple on September 3. Mr. Pickburn, instructed by Mr. Bellisario, appeared for the relations of the deceased. Evidence was given by Dr. Jarvie Hood that the deceased was suffering from affection of the blood vessels of the brain, which produced at times attacks of unconsciousness and loss of memory, affecting to a certain extent his mentality. In the doctor's opinion the deceased committed suicide whilst suffering from some temporary mental derangement. The Coroner returned a verdict of suicide whilst suffering from mental aberration.

BREACHES OF AWARD.

Charles Mapstone was charged at the Chief Industrial Magistrate's Court yesterday with committing a breach of the award of the Professional and Shopworkers' No. 1 Board by failing to pay Alfred Somerville, a musical employee of the Sydney Skating Rink, 5s for each performance additional to six a week. The period of the alleged breach was from April 1 to July 28 last.

The defendant pleaded not guilty, and said that Somerville was satisfied to play in the band for £3 a week, and he accepted the job at that rate.

Mr. Addison made an order against the defendant for £20, with 17s costs.

Charles Mapstone was also proceeded against for failing to pay Patrick Dalton, an employee at the Sydney Skating Rink, £3 a week for six consecutive performances. Dalton said that he played the cornet at the rink for six nights and one afternoon performance. He was agreeable to take £2 a week, which the defendant paid him. THE HUTCHENS RECITALS.

Mr. Frank Hutchens opened the second of his three pianoforte recitals at the Conservatorium last night with the Beethoven "Sonata in C major, Op. 2, No. 3," a beautiful example of that master's early manner. The pianist rendered the "Allegro con brio" in a spirit of alert decision that emphasised the piquant animation of the movement, departing from this treatment only where a passing phase brought in a lovely strain of melody pervaded by a subtle sadness. The composer divides the melodic theme of the Adagio by a series of pauses, which gives the movement its peculiar character. The second allegro enabled the pianist to display his technical skill near the termination, where a vivacious staccato touch was unexpectedly united with a pianissimo—an alluring combination. Mr. Hutchens again sustained the interest of the audience in the César Franck "Prelude, Choral and Fugue." The prelude was indefinite and suggested an improvisation too long extended, whilst as regards the Fugue, the composer glossed over the typical characteristics of such a movement in a quite incomprehensible manner. When the old masters announce a fugue one knows what to expect, but apparently this is not the case with the modern. However, the chorale was exquisitely beautiful, and especially so where the pianist rendered arpeggio chords in the treble, with a murmurous bass that suggested the sound of the distant thunder of surf on some remote beach.

During the evening Mr. Hutchens rendered with success many fine solos, and he also had the good fortune to introduce in association with Mr. Cyril Monk and Mr. Carl Gotch, an original "Trio in B minor for Violin, 'Cello, and Piano," by Miss Solomon. This memorable "first performance" opened with an allegro maestoso, in which effective use was made of a unisonal passage for the two strings, repeated by the piano. This feature gave a fiery animation to a movement in which the three instruments were skilfully mingled in more flowing strains. The tempo di minuetto, with its lightly-played part for the strings and sparkling piano music, was brief, graceful, and fairy-like; there was an andante, in which the piano predominated in a finely harmonised theme; and a terminal allegro, clever and complicated, which brought to a close a work characterised by wealth of thematic material. The interpretation was excellent, and there was much deserved applause for the composer.

The vocalists will be Mme. Goossens-Viceroy (soprano), Miss Dorrie Ward (mezzo), Mr. Hector Goldspink (tenor), and Mr. Walter Cumming (bass). New subscribers may now conveniently come in.

ELEPHANT ISLAND.

MAROONED MEN.

INCIDENTS OF DAILY LIFE.

(COPYRIGHTED IN AUSTRALIA AND NEW ZEALAND BY THE AUSTRALIAN PRESS ASSOCIATION; IN GREAT BRITAIN BY THE "DAILY CHRONICLE," AND IN AMERICA BY THE "NEW YORK WORLD.")

PUNTA ARENAS, Sept. 10.

The party rescued from Elephant Island are making a good recovery from their privations. They will arrive in England at the end of October.

Mr. Frank Wild, who was in charge of the party, gives a vivid description of life on Elephant Island. Wild, realising that sleeping in the icehole was impossible, turned two boats upside down, and made canvas walls. Chronometer cases formed the windows, and the thwarts provided upper bunks. But some of the party had to be content with beds made from pebbles from the beach. The hut was constantly flooded. Seventy gallons of water were bailed out nightly. The only hot meal served was at dawn, and this consisted of penguin fried with blubber. Lunch served at 1 p.m. consisted of biscuits and raw blubber. The afternoon was spent in exercising over a track 100 yards long.

Dinner was eaten at 5 p.m., and consisted of penguin's breast. Bovril was the only hot beverage. One day they greatly enjoyed some half-digested fish found in a seal's stomach. The men smoked grass from the padding of their Arctic boots. Pipes were carved from wood and the bones of birds.

Wild decided, failing relief by the end of October, to try and reach Deception Island, which whalers visit in the summer. The biscuits, sugar, and sledging rations were to be served for this. The party went to bed at 5.30 p.m., and took turns to read aloud from the Bible, the Encyclopedia Britannica, Browning, Carlyle's History of the French Revolution, and Bacon's Essays. A concert was held on Saturdays, Hussey playing the banjo. The King's health was drunk on His Majesty's birthday in hot sledging ration.

When Hurley and Marston sighted the Yelcho she was apparently steaming past the camp, but Wild improvised smoke signals, and the Yelcho swung in. The first question asked those on board was, "When was the war over?"

CABLE FROM QUEEN ALEXANDRA.

LONDON, Sept. 10.

Queen Alexandra telegraphed to Sir Ernest Shackleton:—"It gives me the greatest possible pleasure to hear of your success in rescuing all your party. I trust my standard, the Union Jack, and mascot brought you back, and that we shall soon welcome you home."

FINANCIAL.

S. HOFFNUNG AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

The report of S. Hoffnung and Co., Ltd., for the year ended March 1 last shows that the trading profits amount to £50,463. After deducting expenses, interest, etc., there is a net profit of £40,017, to which has to be added £569 brought forward. It is proposed to pay on August 1 a final dividend at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum on the preference shares, making 7 per cent. for the year (being the maximum dividend payable under the articles of association), to pay 15 per cent. for the year on the ordinary shares, to place to reserve £10,000, and to carry forward £6757.

E. RICH AND CO., LTD.

DIRECTORS' REPORT.

The report of the above company covers the nine months ended June 30. After providing for bad debts, depreciation, Federal and State land and income taxes, and other current expenses, there is a balance to credit of profit and loss account of £15,321, out of which an interim dividend at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum for the half-year ended March 31 was paid on April 28, absorbing £4950, and leaving a balance of £10,373 to be dealt with. The directors recommend that out of the profits for the nine months ended June 30 a dividend at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum, less the interim dividend already distributed, be paid, which will absorb another £2960; that there shall be passed to reserve account (making it £10,000) £855, and to suspense account £550, leaving a balance to be carried forward of £60. Owing to the uncertainty as to what direction taxation may follow, and what will be the basis of the War Time Profits Bill, the board have thought it necessary to create a suspense account, and transfer to it such an amount as would enable them to meet the calls that may be made upon them without anxiety. The business of the company up to the present had been well maintained, notwithstanding the severity of the drought which had prevailed during the past year, but was then happily broken. The effects of the war are, however, now being increasingly felt in the shortage of supplies and the increased cost of importation.

The annual meeting was held yesterday in Brisbane, when Mr. A. J. Carter, M.L.C., was re-elected a director, and at a subsequent meeting of the board he was again elected chairman.

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

The jute market opened very strongly yesterday. Cablegrams from Calcutta stated that Indian export houses were very firm in their quotations for cornsacks, and were not disposed to accept orders under the equivalent of 11/1 and 9/11½ delivered Sydney. In these circumstances it was not surprising that Sydney importers advanced their rates, and demanded from 9/10½ to 9/11 net to rails for October-November shipments. For spot stocks from 9/11 to 9/- net was wanted. Woolpacks were also stronger than they were last week, and sales were made at from 3/10 to 3/10½ net. There was no change in branbags, which were steady at 7/6 net.

News was received from Canada that this year's salmon pack was turning out much smaller than was anticipated, and that packers would be unable to supply the full quantities booked. One message stated that no 1lb flat tins of Sockeye would be shipped, and that only 60 per cent. of the ½lb tins would be delivered, that there would be a full delivery of ½lb Cohoes, but that 1lb flat Cohoes would be short fully 50 per cent., and 1lb talls 25 per cent. The message also mentioned that only 8 per cent. of the 1lb pinks would be shipped. This information caused some comment amongst merchants, but there was no flutter in the market, as might have been expected, as the majority of the merchants are of the opinion that the high retail price of salmon must result in a greatly reduced consumption. It is also known that many of the bigger grocers carry heavy stocks, on which they can work for some months. Other descriptions of tinned fish were in good demand at full rates. Dried fruits were dull, excepting for an occasional sale of dates at from /4 to /4¼ per lb.

THE JEWELLERY TRADE.

Business in the retail jewellery trade has continued fairly good as regards the general selling lines, despite the handicap of the drapers' sales. Last month registered further increased costs in imported lines, and more frequent notices of cancellation of orders by manufacturers abroad. There are local stocks which can be purchased under landed cost, and the canny jeweller has good opportunities of investing to advantage for goods for the coming Christmas trade. The Sydney Mint has closed down its supply of gold to jewellers, who are now seeking for some other source of supply.

The "Commonwealth Jeweller and Watchmaker" says that business in Victoria has been very quiet, and most of the retailers have been complaining. The sale of wristlet watches and other soldiers' presents has not been so great as in previous months. This is probably due to the slackening off in the number of enlistments.

ELECTROPLATE DEARER.

FURTHER ADVANCE OF 33⅓ PER CENT.

At a meeting of the Silver, Electroplate, Jewellers, and Allied Trades Manufacturers' Association, held in Birmingham on May 11, 1916, the following resolution was unanimously passed:—

"That there should be an advance of not less than 33⅓ per cent. on pre-war prices on all electroplate wares, and that the trade be recommended to adopt this advance from May 15, 1916."

This makes the advances, including the plus already on pre-war prices, 40 per cent.

CARGO EX ENEMY SHIPS.

A meeting of the consignees of cargo ex enemy vessels, which were detained or condemned in Commonwealth or South African ports, is to be held at the Sydney Chamber of Commerce premises on Thursday, September 14, for the purpose of considering a letter from the prize claims committee, London, with reference to expenses incurred in obtaining delivery of their goods, and deciding what (if any) further action is to be taken.

The amount of wool manifested to arrive at Darling Harbour yesterday was 4433 bales. At Darling Harbour yesterday 5589 tons of wheat and 213 tons of flour were manifested to arrive.

BUTTER ARRIVALS.

There was more butter available yesterday than at the opening of last week, but retailers again complained that they were unable to obtain more than a quarter of their normal requirements. One merchant, however, stated that grocers on his books were supplied with all the butter asked for. The arrivals yesterday totalled 5728 boxes, made up as follows:—4628 boxes from the Northern rivers, 600 by rail, and 500 from Queensland consigned to retailers. Last Monday 4616 boxes came to hand. The consignments from the Rivers landed yesterday were—By steamer Eden, 399 boxes; Fitzroy, 5; Minnbah, 291; Yulgilbar, 260; Pulganbar, 200; Wollongbar, 3203; Brundah, 267.

RAILWAY MARKET.

SLUMP IN POTATOES.

The usual large Monday yarding was offered at Alexandria. Lucerne chaff was well sought at 5/10 to 6/ per cwt. Hay of all kind: was weaker.

The outstanding feature of the market was the fall in potatoes. The visible supply was 42 trucks, and with a heavy shipment of bags from Tasmania prices suffered a sharp decline. The ruling price was 5/6 to 6/6 per cwt, with odd lots higher.

HOMEBUSH STOCK SALES.

SHEEP AND LAMBS.

STRONG MARKET.

The sheep offered at auction at Homebush yesterday were confined to those left over from Thursday, and it was announced that any arriving since would not be submitted at this sale to public competition. Just 12,124 sheep and lambs were forward, and were mostly in good condition, with heavy woolly skins. There was a large attendance at the yards to view the opening sale, which started an hour late. At the beginning it was evident that buyers wanted sheep, but for a little while the prices obtained were somewhat irregular. However, the buyers soon settled down in earnest, and values declared themselves quite equal to the best of last Thursday's rates. These were passed before long, and prices went up to a level with those of last Monday. By noon the market had proved itself a strong one, and prime sorts brought quite up to value. A few odd pens of shorn were submitted. The highest prices to lunch time were up to 45/3 for crossbred wethers, from Mr. P. Ryan, Cootamundra, and 3d lower for merino wethers from Mr. H. A. Gardner, Coonamble.

Amongst the highest prices obtained were the following:—Account Mr. C. E. Ewers, Wyalong, xb w to 42/2, w to 41/8; Dean Bros., Wyalong, xb w to 42/, w to 39/7; Mr. Thos. LAMBS.

All lambs were sold with the sheep, and were in good demand. Some of the best prices obtained were:—Account Mr. H. L. M. Crossing, Munna, crossbred to 34/10 and to 33/7; executors W. G. Taylor, Coonamble, crossbred to 26/11; Mr. G. S. Townsend, Coonamble, crossbred to 26/2; Mr. T. E. Dean, Wyalong, crossbred to 22/3; and Mr. C. W. Ridley, West Wyalong, crossbred to 30/9.

CATTLE.

RATHER EASIER.

The cattle market was weak on the whole for heavy beasts, but ordinary and light sorts were not quotably cheaper than on Thursday. There was a full yarding for a Monday, the official total being over 1700, and the quality of the beasts was generally good, there being very few rough plain beasts. Most of the yardings were of light, useful kinds, just suited for butcher's requirements, and for these the competition was good, and prices realised showed very little difference from those obtained last Thursday. Occasionally a yard of attractive stuff went to extreme prices, but that was the exception. Briefly it may be put that a decline of from 10/ to 15/ was noticeable for heavy beasts, while average weights were a trifle weaker than at last day's sale. But on Thursday the sheep market collapsed, and attention was centred on cattle.

Noteworthy prices included:—Account Mr. R. Speck, Forbes, bullocks to £24/13/, avg. £22/15/; A. A. Company, Willowtree, bullocks, to £24/6/, avg. £22/19/; Mr. C. S. E. Clift, Werris Creek, bullocks to £22/1/, avg. £20/2/9; Messrs. M. and T. Hogan, Gundagai, bullocks to £21/19/, avg. £20/3/1; Mr. H. W. Hall, Parkes, bullocks to £24, avg. £23/12/9; Mr. W. Bright, Wallendbeen, bullocks to £22/15/; Mr. L. B. Boxell, Wallendbeen, bullocks to £23/8/, avg. £22/14/6; Mr. C. W. Pye, Coonamble, bullocks to £25, avg. £21/10/10/; Messrs. N. A. Gatenby and Co., Tullamore, bullocks to £22, avg. £20/9/6; Messrs. Fagan Bros., Cowra, bullocks £21/16/; Mr. Duncan M'Master, Warialda, bullocks and steers to £20/8/, avg. £18/12/7; Messrs. The Sydney Wool-selling Brokers' Association report:—Values for good greasy merinos and crossbreds were about on a par with those ruling at the last Sydney auctions, and skirtings were generally a shade dearer. SPORTING.

THE TURF.

The Cup Meeting of the Menangle Park Racing Club takes place this afternoon, and a six-event programme promises interesting sport. The transit arrangements by rail include special trains starting from the Central Railway Station at 10.30 (horses), 11.40, and 11.50 a.m., and 12.10 p.m., the last-mentioned running right through to the racecourse. The first race is timed to start at 1.50 p.m. An early return to the city is assured.

The steamship Riverina, which arrived from New Zealand yesterday, brought across the steeplechaser New York, a six-year-old chestnut gelding, by Frisco from Karaka, whose best effort last season was to win the Tamaki Steeplechase, 2¼m, at the winter meeting of the Auckland Racing Club, with 10st 8lb in the saddle. New York is engaged in both cross-country events at Randwick next month.

The following are the handicaps of Island Lady, 2s bhd., and Leather Boy, 3s bhd., for the Trial Handicap at the New South Wales Trotting Club's meeting on Monday next. These were held over pending completion.

Spagetti (Redfern).—Hem was not a starter in the Maiden Handicap at Kembla Grange.

Messrs. Wm. Inglis and Son announce that on Tuesday, the 19th inst., in conjunction with Mr. Norman Ebsworth, Scone, they will offer for sale by public auction, at Scone, three three-years-old thoroughbreds, including a gelding by En Garde (imp.), a filly by Ruenalf, and a filly by Kenilworth (imp.); also the brood mare Parallelogram (1907), by Ruenalf from Parallel. The firm will also, in conjunction with Mr. T. G. Murray, Canowindra, hold a sale of thoroughbred brood mares and untried stock, on account of Mr. Ewan R. Fraser, Hon. Agar Wynne, and Mr. T. Payten. There are 29 lots catalogued, and the sale takes place on the 27th inst. The catalogues are now in course of compilation for the firm's annual spring sale of racehorses, brood mares, and untried stock at Payten's Newmarket stables, on Monday, October 9.

Mr. W. A. Menzies, a well-known sporting man (wires our Melbourne correspondent), died on Sunday. His connection with racing dates back to the early "nineties," and he successfully figured as owner, V.R.C. committeeman, judge, and handicapper. Mr. Menzies succeeded the late Mr. F. F. Dakin as V.R.C. handicapper in May, 1903, and he held the position until February of this year, when, owing to ill-health, he resigned. He also acted as handicapper for the Williamstown, Ascot, and other racing clubs.

MINING.

QUIET MARKET.

The mining market was very quiet yesterday, the day's business yielding only 17 sales—ten in the gold division, five in silver, and two in tin.

A sale of Edna May was recorded at £5/5/—equal to the price obtained last week. On Saturday Edna May Deep Levels rose to 35/6 for cash, but they dropped yesterday morning to 33/3, which was the lowest figure accepted on Friday. Later in the day, however, they were taken for cash at 33/9 and 33/10½, and and for delivery in six weeks at 34/. The fluctuations are explained by the telegrams in this column from the officials of the mine. Edna Central sold at the noon call at 28/6 and advanced /9 during the afternoon to 29/3.

There was no alteration in the silver-lead section, New Burragorang, Broken Hill North, and Broken Hill Junction having attention at well-maintained rates.

Vegetable Creek at 5/11 and Trong at 17/6 were the only transactions in tin scrip.

MINING NOTES.

News from the Larut tin-dredging property states that the erection of the dredge is being pushed on with all speed, and latest advices from Mr. J. Malcolm Newman indicate that he hopes to start dredging by the middle of November.

EDNA MAY DEEP LEVELS.

On Saturday Mr. Stuckey, manager of the Edna May Deep Levels wired as follows to the Sydney Stock Exchange:—"Borehole in south-east corner of shaft just struck good values at about 20ft; coarse gold; face of drive in good stone, and two bores put into footwall side, each 8ft deep. Both show gold for full depth, one borehole being rich. Total length driven on reef about 20ft."

Subsequently the secretary reported:—"Duff (chairman of directors) wires: 'Returned to mine. Confirm Stuckey's wire. Reef cut in borehole in bottom shaft at 500ft; borings show coarse gold. Also two holes bored into east side of main reef drive; each 8ft; show gold throughout.'"

Yesterday the secretary reported:—"Main reef drive advanced north-east 20ft; total length of reef exposed, 28ft. Hanging-wall exposed on full length, but stone still on footwall side; width unknown. Stone broken sent to battery. Intrusive dyke now showing in face of drive, but this carries gold, and will be crushed. Dyke is very unlikely to affect reef. Holes bored as reported yesterday."

Yesterday afternoon an urgent telegram stated:—"Face of main drive just fired out; whole face prospects about 3oz per ton, including dyke material."

AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.

A very rapid movement has taken place in the different weather systems during the 48 hours ended at 9 a.m. yesterday. The Antarctic disturbance which was over the Bight on Saturday travelled about 900 miles in 24 hours, and was responsible for the sudden southerly change on Sunday morning. At present the continent is practically covered by high pressure or anti-cyclonic conditions, and as a result we should have fine weather throughout, with pleasant days and cold, frosty nights. The centre of "high" is situated over the western districts of New South Wales.

The Tasman Sea is covered by a rather flat Antarctic disturbance, while a new one has made its appearance to the south of the Leeuwin.

Another high pressure has entered Australia between Perth and Carnarvon.

Ocean Forecast.—Fresh westerly around the Leeuwin and Tasmania, and fresh south-east on parts of the Queensland coast.

THE OSTERLEY ARRIVES.

A good trip was made to Capetown, but on leaving the Cape bad weather was experienced. On Friday, August 25, in lat. 44.12 S., long. 60.1 E., the barometer and general appearance of the weather gave every indication of a storm of great severity, wind increasing in force from NNW, until the following day in lat. 44.7 S., long. 67.8 E., when it increased to a whole gale, with terrific squalls and mountainous seas. Owing to the heavy weather ship was hove-to for 12 hours, and then steered north to clear the centre of the storm field; from thence the weather moderated to a fresh following wind. Across the Bight fine weather prevailed.

LADIES,
WOULD YOU LIKE TO OWN A PICTURE SHOW?
Some of you had the opportunity, and let it slip. You're in luck's way, however; a second chance has come to you to make money.
HOME-MADE LOLLIES HAVE COME TO STOP.
For 17 years we've been telling you about it, but it has taken the war and the inability to obtain lollies from Eng. to make you
WAKE UP.
Pictures are booming, but there is no boom in lollies. They're for all time. Nature called for sweet things in our diet from the year one. Your own sex, with your charming, winning manner, with a SWEET smile, tempted Adam with a SWEET apple. Had it been a sour one, Adam might not have fallen.
THERE'LL BE NO SLUMP IN LOLLIES.
Are you going to be in at this trade, which protects you with a 40 per cent. tariff, or
ARE YOU GOING TO BE LEFT AGAIN?
In a life's study we have got this trade to a nicety, and can transfer our knowledge to you and make you quite proficient in a few hours.
So certain is this true,
WE WILL GIVE YOU THE MATERIAL
AND TEACH YOU FREE.
If you do not make the highest class lollies in the world, do not purchase our world's collection of recipes. We have heard a lady say it took her 8 years to learn. She's been emulating Rip Van Winkle, slept for 7 years 364 days, then woke up.
CALL AND SEE WHAT YOU SHALL MAKE IN A DAY.

FOR COUGHS, COLDS, ETC., TAKE LANE'S EMULSION.

Half the battle in getting rid of a cold is to take steps to cure it on the first signs of attack.

Lane's Emulsion will prevent it getting a firm hold on you—and will drive away the most stubborn cases of coughs, colds, influenza, depression, weakness, etc.—and is the finest remedy known for incipient consumption.

Lane's Emulsion is a lung healer, and, what is equally important, is also a body-builder.

Always have some in the house. Take it whenever there is need. It's good always—never harmful. Perfect for children and adults.

Price, 2/6 and 4/6 per bottle. Of all chemists and stores. Refuse substitutes. Take none but Lane's.

GIVE "CLEVER MARY" TO YOUR SOLDIER BOY.

Your Soldier Friend in camp has to do his own washing-up and cleaning. He doesn't get so much spare time that he can spend it rubbing and labouring to make things clean and sweet.

Give him "Clever Mary." Hundreds of mothers and sisters are doing this. He'll appreciate it.

PUT A TIN OF "CLEVER MARY" IN THE CHRISTMAS PARCEL

It's better by far than soap, and a little goes a long way. Nothing like it to clean the hands and make a soldier feel fresh after weary hours in the trenches.

Refuse substitutes. If not in stock, a FREE sample will be mailed you on request to the Paget Manufacturing Co., Ltd., 109 Regent-street, Sydney, who also make Shi-noleum.

"CLEVER MARY," "THE ENEMY OF GREASE."

DON'T THROW AWAY YOUR SOILED DRESSES. Have them cleaned in the Rogers' way. No doubt you have Dresses, Blouses, Skirts, etc., laid aside in the wardrobe, which only need cleaning in order to fit them for further service.

Why should you go to the expense of new garments when you can have your soiled apparel cleaned for a few shillings? If you do not know the economy of this plan—test it now.

NOW OPEN ROGERS' NEW BRANCH.

Our new Branch is opposite the Railway Station and the Hotel Sydney. It is quite handy for you to leave your clothes to be Cleaned or Pressed or Dyed, and we will deliver anywhere.

DAVID JONES IN 1838 AND DAVID JONES TO-DAY.

Vide "Sunday Sun," Sept. 10th:—

Mrs. Honeyman—one of the oldest women in Australia—in referring to the "ancient days," says she was engaged in the household of Mr. David Jones, the founder of the present Firm—David Jones, Ltd. The shop, a small structure, with the family residence at the back, stood on a portion of the ground where the present large building was erected. This good lady goes on to say:—"Mr. David Jones had a good reputation for straight dealing. It was recognised by the populace that the best was to be obtained at his shop, and it was his straightforwardness and fair treatment of his customers that helped considerably to build up the concern."

These truths which Mrs. Honeyman enunciated of seventy odd years ago are strictly adhered to to-day in the conviction that a business run on the principles of supplying reliable goods at moderate prices is bound to give satisfaction, and succeed.

It is not our practice to talk of our own virtues, but we feel we cannot let this opportunity pass of reminding the public that David Jones' policy of yesterday is David Jones' policy of to-day.

BLOUSES AND SKIRTS,

We are Specially Featuring this week.

See our Windows. The styles exhibited are both fascinating and practical. Then take the elevator to the second floor, and see the departmental displays, where everything can be reviewed at your leisure. We specially make mention to-day of

TWO WONDERFUL VALUES.

JAP. SILK BLOUSES AT 9/11, AND JAP. SILK SKIRTS AT 19/11, That can be worn together if desired, completing a very smart and useful Costume.

THE FIRST.

JAP. SILK BLOUSES AT 9/11

These Ivory Jap. Silk Blouses of ours are already widely known and appreciated. Judge of their value and merit when we state that thousands have already been sold, and hundreds are being sold daily.

And notwithstanding the big increase in the price of Jap. Silks, we still maintain the same heavyweight excellent quality that was used to fashion our original models at 9/11.

The styles showing now are particularly attractive and well tailored, all the newest and smartest innovations being introduced.

There are Blouses with handkerchief fronts, dainty fichus, and smart shirt styles, all with neat touches of hemstitching.

All marked at one price, 9/11 EACH.

THE SECOND.

JAP. SILK SKIRTS AT 19/11.

These, too, are remarkable value—the same heavyweight, beautiful quality Silk used to fashion our 9/11 Blouses is used in the Skirts. The styles are particularly smart, hanging gracefully and well.

One Skirt is eased at the back, finished with fancy hemstitched belt, and neatly made pocket to correspond. Another has quaint little pockets, and is effectively finished at the waist and hem with a narrow finely-pleated frill. The centre front is trimmed with Crochet buttons.

Both styles are obtainable in White, Navy, and Black.

You should make a point of seeing these Skirts. They are excellent from every point of view.

Price, 19/11.
